DESPITE SC ORDER, GOVT PLANS TO KEEP GIR LIONS IN GUJARAT

The Centre plans to relocate some of the Asiatic lions from the Gir sanctuary to other suitable areas within Gujarat. The Supreme Court had in 2013 ordered that some of the big cats be translocated to suitable places outside the state to avoid extinction due to spread of an epidemic. The Gujarat government is reportedly not in favour of shifting the royal beasts to other states, hence the Centre's attempt at a workaround to spread them within the state itself | P9

RS RECORD AS 19 MPs SUSPENDED FOR A WEEK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

WITH a record 19 Rajya Sabha members being suspended for a week on Tuesday for disrupting proceedings as they demanded discussions on a clutch of issues, including price rise, the stand-off between the Centre and the Opposition is set to intensify further.

Ever since the monsoon session began, the Opposition has been on its feet demanding discussions on price rise and levy of GST on essential items. The government, too, is ready for discussions as soon as Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman recovers from Covid.

Opposition leaders are scheduled to meet on Wednesday to discuss their future strategy in the wake of the suspension. They may join the suspended MPs who have been sitting in protest near the Gandhi statue within the Parliament complex.

On Monday, four Congress members of the Lok Sabha were suspended for the rest of the session for displaying placards in the House.

After the first half of the Rajya Sabha proceedings were washed out, when Opposition members entered the Well of the House shouting slogans during the second half. Deputy chairman Harivansh Narayan Singh warned them of action. But the Opposition continued their protest seeking suspension of business to take up price rise.

As his pleas went unheeded, Harivansh asked the treasury benches to move a resolution for suspension. Minister of State for Parliamentary Affairs V Muraleedharan moved a motion to suspend 10 MPs — seven from the Trinamool, two DMK and one CPI(M). Nine more names were added before the motion was put to vote.

The 19 MPs include M Mohamed Abdulla, S Kalyanasundaram, R Girirajan, N R Elango, M Shanmugam and Kanimozhi N V N Somu (all DMK); B Lingaiah Yadav, Ravichandra Vaddiraju and Damodar Rao Divakonda (all TRS); A A Rahim and V Sivadasan (all CPM) and Sandosh Kumar P of CPI. After the suspension, the MPs refused to leave, squatting on the floor of the House leading to adjournment for the day. AAP member Sanjay Singh was seen tearing up a paper and flinging it towards the chair.

Previous high was 12

This is the highest number of suspensions in one go in the Rajya Sabha; the previous record was 12 MPs during the winter session in November last year

ED questions Sonia for six hours

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@NewDelhi

THE Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Tuesday questioned Congress president Sonia Gandhi for over six hours in the National Herald money laundering case amid party's protests over alleged misuse of investigative agencies for political gains.

On July 21, she had responded to 28 questions by the ED team and spent over two hours at its office. Sonia has been summoned to appear again on Wednesday. Like last time, Sonia was accompanied by daughter Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and son Rahul Gandhi. While Priyanka stayed back at the agency in another room, Rahul left soon thereafter. In the first half of the day, Sonia was questioned for about 2.5 hours while post-lunch session went on for over 3.5 hours.

Rahul later led a protest march of Congress MPs from Parliament to Rashtrapati Bhavan. He and over 50 other Congress MPs were detained by the Delhi Police at Vijay Chowk.

"India is a police state now, that's the truth. PM Modi is a king, and this is a police state. What will happen if MPs cannot meet the President?" Rahul told the media.

Leaders of several opposition parties wrote to President Droupadi Murmu alleging the misuse of Central agencies to target them and sought her intervention.

The orders under sections of the Information Technology Act were issued to block 1,474 accounts/URLs and 175 tweets from being accessed by the public, besides certain information which included suspension of whole accounts on Twitter.

Bajrang Dal men halt party at Mangaluru pub

Police and Bajrang Dal activists in front of the pub in Mangaluru | EXPRESS

IN yet another incident of 'moral policing', Bajrang Dal activists disrupted a farewell party of some college students at a pub in Mangaluru city on Monday night. The incident which occurred at 'Re-Cycle The Lounge' located in Balmatta sparked outrage with Opposition parties demanding strict action against the culprits and accusing the government of tacitly supporting fringe groups to carry out such acts.

It is the same pub, which was functioning under a different name - Amnesia, that was attacked by Sri Rama Sene activists in January 2009.

Sources said that a group of Bajrang Dal activists reached the pub around 8 pm after they learnt about the farewell party. They took the pub bouncers and manager to task, accusing them of serving liquor to some underage boys and girls who were at the party. Within a few minutes, the pub asked the partying students to leave.

Videos that went viral on Tuesday showed some boys and girls walking out of the pub even as a cop and Hindutva activists stood outside. The activists were heard hurling abuses at the students and the cop remained a mute spectator to the unruly scene. P4

WAKF MUST SUBMIT IDGAH RECORDS TODAY

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

THE Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike has set a deadline for the Wakf Board to provide additional documents and proof of ownership regarding Chamarajpet Idgah Maidan till July 27, and if the board fails to provide those, the municipality will likely decide the issue.

BBMP Joint Commissioner, West, SM Srinivasa, told TNIE that some people from the board had approached his office, and said that they will provide some records. "We have issued a notice and informed them about the time. If there is no reply, the Palike will then initiate the next step," he said.

As per Palike sources, in case the Wakf Board fails to apply for khata since 1965 gazette notification, the BBMP would initiate legal steps and then make the khatha recognising the 2.5-acre land as municipality's property.

Chamarajpet Naagarikara Vedike Okkuta member Shashank who along with Hindu outfits like Vishwa Sanatha Hindu Parishad and others has been fighting for the land rights for other communities to hold events like Ganesha Chaturti, Independence Day, Rajyostava, hoped that the Palike will take the right decision regarding the issue.

Local residents around the Maidan and Hindu outfits claim that the land belongs to Palike, and the Muslim community was compensated with a piece of ground decades ago on Mysuru Road for last rites, and hence, demanded the Palike and police give permission to host other religious and public events at Chamarajpet Idgah Maidan.

Earlier, BBMP Commissioner Tushar Girinath had courted controversy when he said the Wakf Board can apply for khata. The BJP leaders hit back and alleged MLA BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan was arm-twisting Girinath to issue statements in favour of the board; Girinath later said his statement was misconstrued.

Wakf Board confident of retaining land

Karnataka Wakf Board chairman Shafi Saadi exuded confidence that the land will stay with the board. "The onus is on Palike. The Palike was ordered to stay away from the land by Munsif court, High Court and Supreme Court. We will also fight it out legally," said Saadi.

Collect a token to use lift at underground Metro stations

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

AT Metro stations, able-bodied commuters cram the lifts despite boards specifying that it is meant for senior citizens, specially-abled and pregnant women. Five underground Metro stations of Phase-I do not have baggage or body scanners at entry points leading to the lifts. The Karnataka State Industrial Security Force (KSISF), manning these stations, has initiated a system under which tokens are provided to those who do not fall under these categories.

The token system is at present operational at Cubbon Park, Vidhana Soudha, Sir M Visvesvaraya, KSR railway station and Kempegowda Metro stations.

A security source said, "We call these frisking tokens. They have been in place for quite some time and not many are aware of it."

Token needs to be handed over to the security staffers manning the lift

Physically fit commuters, who have suffered injuries or those with knee issues, say they are unable to walk and are permitted to use the lifts. "To ensure it is not a security threat to other people, we ask them to put their bags through the scanner as well as subject them to physical screening. A token is handed over after that."

The token needs to be handed over to the private security staffer monitoring the lift to gain entry. "This does not apply to senior citizens, specially-abled or pregnant women," he added.

A frequent commuter from Cubbon Park station was surprised that such a system exists. Divya Rani, who asked directions to use the lift due to leg pain, was told by a cop, "You get to use the lift and safety is ensured for other commuters. I had no clue such a system was in place."

Police warn school buses against parking on roads

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru

DEPUTY Commissioner of Police, Traffic Control department, Kalakrishna Swami said schools are not allowed to park buses outside and near campuses except when students are boarding or disembarking.

The traffic control department has said notices will be sent to schools whose buses are found encroaching roads during odd hours. Schools which do not have sufficient area to drop off students outside, should park inside school campuses, she said adding that first time notices were served to many schools for blocking traffic.

KC Gopalkrishna, chairman, National Public School, Indiranagar, had requested authorities to allow parking of buses outside the school explaining that residents do not object to it. Many complaints have been registered over traffic congestion by school buses during peak hours, and encroachment of roads.

Nagaveni T Reddy, principal, Orchids International School, Mysuru Road, said there should be a provision to park the buses in front of schools without affecting the public. Schools with lack of parking space inside campuses should also be allowed on the condition that they do not hit traffic. Shivkumar Venkatesh, a social worker from the city, said on narrow roads, school buses are parked in rows, which should not be allowed.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

27th July: Every day brings a different quality. Today's dominant images are undoubtedly Taurean, encouraging a sense that what is most important now is cautious efficiency and a high regard for conservative virtues. This might not sound like fun but it's about the best basis we could have for adventures and excitement just at the moment!

ARIES
(Mar. 21 - Apr. 20)
Venus makes subtle angles to a series of planets, encouraging you to seek inspiration and sympathy from friends and colleagues. Those of you at work will discover that it's who you know that counts, not what you do. However, given that intense passions could erupt at any moment, you should never slip into complacency.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
You can take advantage of growing planetary alignments with secretive sectors of your chart to increase your privacy and spend a little more time by yourself. Over the next few weeks, peace and quiet will be a commodity in increasing demand, and there's no reason why you should reveal all to people with whom you're uncomfortable.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
That sensitive sign, Pisces, has been having its say in your life and your instincts have been telling you to bide your time over career and professional issues. However, you may now put delicate considerations to one side and press ahead with your usual vigour.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
The Moon is casting its rays far and wide, especially over those sections of your chart with responsibility for close and intimate partnerships. Friendships with people who are older, more mature and experienced should be favoured, especially if there's any chance that you might end up living together.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
It looks like a hard-working day. There's a general air of excitement, but today is a good time to get your shoulder to the wheel and press ahead with routine but highly necessary chores. My only concern is that you might push yourself too hard.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Almost any Virgo will tell you that the working week is not designed for fun but for honest toil. However, the planets are in a slightly chaotic mood and with the Moon quite sensitive, today you must give absolute priority to pleasure, romance and cultural excursions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Jupiter, the ruler of opportunity and enthusiasm is the planet of the moment. If professional ambitions are at the top of the agenda the outcome can only be good. The one problem is your tendency to inadvertently offend those who support you. Put yourself at their disposal and they won't forget it.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Although financial indications are relatively benign, you need to do your sums and ensure that you are not making a rod to beat yourself with. Don't take on commitments you won't be able to keep, especially if you are under duress from partners to make a quick agreement.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Something that brought you up short recently should not be allowed to make you feel undermined or demoralised. You are too big a person and the future is too bright, to allow you to carry resentment around for much longer. If you feel that somebody else has been unfair, then you can't really do anything about it until you have found exactly the right approach.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The Sun and Mercury are sparkling away in your solar chart, bringing fresh light to areas of your life that have long been buried deep beneath a mountain of emotional verbiage. Now's the time to break free, perhaps while someone who has been blocking your path is looking the other way!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Be prepared to take even enforced changes at home in your stride. The Moon is currently making it difficult to get one or two personal issues straight, but within a few days all will be made crystal clear and you might even find out what the alternatives are.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar. 20)
You do tend to feel sorry for yourself, and recent planetary activity has inclined you to be feeling neglected and hard done by. Right now, you may be considering spending your way to happiness and why not? After all, you have earned the right to a little luxury, just as long as you're careful.

WEDNESDAY 27.07.2022 A SPACE MARKETING INITIATIVE BENGALURU

LEADERSHIP WITH A COMPELLING VISION

With his maiden budget of hope, a promising visit to Davos, a planned R&D policy as well as a new agri policy, Bommai's overall vision is seemingly translating into sustainable action.

On 4th March 2022, Bommai presented his maiden budget, terming it as being growth-oriented and sensitive, benefiting all sections of society, while also aiming to protect the environment. "I call it a sensitive budget, as it aims to protect the environment; quantify the loss of green cover and address the eco deficit by the eco-budget. This is being done for the first time by our government," the CM had said.

Explaining the measures announced in his budget, the CM said the monthly honorarium given to acid attack victims has been increased from Rs 3,000 to Rs 10,000, 10 chemotherapy centres will be opened to serve cancer patients, dialysis cycles provided by the government increased from 30,000 to 60,000, and the government will also provide free eye treatment for senior citizens. The CM also said the honorarium paid to ASHA workers, Anganwadi workers and helpers, mid-day meals cooks and helpers, gram sahayakas has been increased by Rs 1,000.

"The budget focuses on employment, education and empowerment (3 E's), and by doing so, we tried to provide the impetus for future growth," he said, and added that they have given priority to agriculture, manufacturing and service sectors.

After two years of Covid-related disruption, the signs of recovery in the economy are clearly visible. The tax revenue collection that began in a sluggish manner, with the onset of the second wave of the pandemic at the start of the financial year 2021, has picked up, the CM said, adding, "We will reach the target in GST collection, Excise and non-tax revenue."

Meanwhile, he also expressed confidence that the government will start the Mekedatu balancing reservoir project this year, by taking required clearances from the Centre. The CM said Cauvery Water Management Board meeting will approve DPR for the project, and once that is done, the terms of reference for environment clearances will be obtained. "The government wants to start the work this year and that is the reason for initial allocation of Rs 1,000 crore for the project," he said.

Davos Success

After his visit to the World Economic Forum in Davos, Bommai had stated that over 25 companies have committed to invest at least Rs 65,000 crore in the state, generating employment opportunities to lakhs of people. He said neither communal issues nor infrastructure woes had any impact on investors as they have immense confidence in Karnataka. "Karnataka has not lost nor will it lose," he asserted. The interest shown by many companies is the result of the state government's progressive policies and incentives for industrialisation.

A conducive ecosystem for investment, forward-looking policies, technology, availability of skilled human resources, research and development base, incentives for entrepreneurs and availability of land have enabled Karnataka to gain the confidence and trust of investors, Bommai said. The government will provide better infrastructure and ensure ease of doing business for investors. Many of these companies have also shown interest in investing in other parts of the state, not just Bengaluru, he added.

R&D Policy

The Karnataka government is all set to launch a Research & Development policy which is expected to get the nod in the upcoming cabinet meeting, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai recently. "The state government is committed to extending help to every organisation which is into R&D," he stressed.

He called upon entrepreneurs in the electronics R&D sector to make use of facilities given by the state government. He said Karnataka is in the forefront in R&D with over 400 such centres in Bengaluru. "We are the first state to have an exclusive aerospace and defence R&D policy. We have a separate semiconductor and renewable energy policy too. The new R&D policy will be approved in the next cabinet meeting," he said.

State govt plans mass marriage scheme for SCs

'Shubha Lagna' will have more benefits, as compared to earlier programme 'Saptapadi'

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AHEAD of the 2023 Assembly elections, the state government is planning to woo people from Schedule Castes by organising 'Shubha Lagna', a mass marriage programme specific to them.

Saptapadi, another mass marriage initiative started during the former chief minister BS Yediyurappa's tenure in 2020, was interrupted because of two years of Covid pandemic. It was restarted last year, and under that scheme, the bridegroom gets a shirt and a dhoti and Rs 5,000 cash, while the bride gets a silk saree, Rs 1,000 cash and 8 gm of gold for the mangalsutra. Saptapadi was organised under the Endowments Ministry, then headed by Kota Shrinivas Poojari.

Shubha Lagna is a similar initiative, but with additional benefits to the bride and groom, and will be organised by the Social Welfare Department. Sources told The New Indian Express that as per their estimate, the state has 28 to 30 lakh families belonging to the SC community, and majority of them fall under the economically weaker section. Under Shubha Lagna, like in Saptapadi, the bride and groom will get gold and cloth. "But we also have plans to give them money, which will be a fixed deposit that will help them over the long term. These are initial plans," the sources added.

While Saptapadi is applicable for all eligible brides and grooms under the Hindu Act, Shubha Lagna is limited only to people from the SC communities. Explaining the challenges, the sources said there are hundreds of sub-castes under the SC umbrella and each has a different wedding tradition. "We cannot organise individual weddings specific to their sub-castes. The programme will have a simple and common ritual along with the registration of marriages. Food will also be served during the event," he added.

Initially, the department may choose 100 people from each district, which will work out to 3,000 people across the state. The number may vary. "We estimate the cost to be around Rs 35 crore per annum and it has to be cleared by the Finance Department," the sources said. Poojari, who is now social welfare minister, said there is such a proposal before them and it will be discussed with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. "Our government is concerned with the welfare of backward classes and the poor," he added.

Cong stages silent protest against ED

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

STATE Congress leaders on Tuesday staged a 'silent protest' against the Enforcement Directorate's (ED) summons to AICC president Sonia Gandhi in the National Herald case.

State Congress president D K Shivakumar said central agencies, including the ED, Central Bureau of Investigation and Income Tax Departments are being misused to silence political opponents. The agencies are only used against leaders from opposition parties and they have not taken any action against BJP leaders, he said.

Shivakumar said Rahul Gandhi was questioned for 50 hours and Sonia was questioned for three hours earlier, but they have not stopped harassing senior Congress leaders. Sonia had sacrificed the Prime Minister's post and her family had donated family property worth over Rs 20,000 crore, he said.

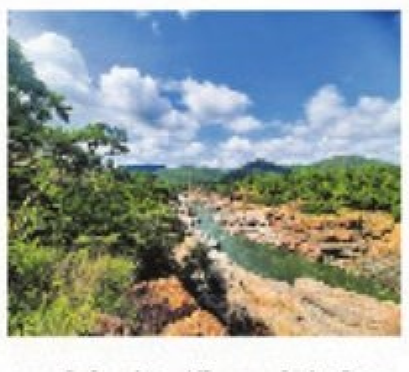
SC POSTS MEKEDATU HEARING TO AUG 10

AGENCIES @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday posted hearing of the matter related to the proposed reservoir across the Cauvery river at Mekedatu in Karnataka, to August 10.

The apex court was hearing Tamil Nadu's application seeking to restrain the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) from deliberating, or passing any order, or direction concerning the detailed project report for the proposed Mekedatu balancing reservoir-cum-drinking water project pending disposal of the applications concerning the project filed by the state. The matter came up for hearing before a bench comprising Justices A M Khanwilkar, A S Oka, and J B Pardiwala. Additional Solicitor General (ASG) Aishwarya Bhati, appearing for the CWMA, sought some time to place an affidavit in the matter.

Senior advocate Shyam Divan, appearing for Karnataka, said they have received the rejoinder affidavit filed on behalf of Tamil Nadu on Monday and there are certain averments made on which instructions are awaited. Senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi appeared for Tamil Nadu.



In its rejoinder to the affidavit filed by Karnataka, Tamil Nadu said, "If a new reservoir is constructed across the Cauvery river upstream of Billigundulu, it will result in harnessing the flows from the uncontrolled catchment which was earmarked exclusively to Tamil Nadu."

In its affidavit filed before the apex court, Karnataka said that the proposed project at Mekedatu is not intended to cause any prejudice to Tamil Nadu. "In any case, the question of prejudice or injury, which Tamil Nadu apprehends, are best resolved in the first instance by the CWMA. Tamil Nadu should not be permitted to run away from CWMA," Karnataka said.

During the hearing in the apex court on July 20, the Tamil Nadu government had said that the proposed reservoir at Mekedatu will "severely impact" the waterflow coming to the state.

The Tamil Nadu government had earlier moved the apex court seeking to restrain Karnataka from proceeding with any activity regarding the proposed construction of a reservoir at Mekedatu.

POLITICAL THEATRE

Rao: AAP will set narrative right

UDUPI: Former IPS officer and AAP state vice-president Bhaskar Rao on Tuesday said fanning extreme radicalisation among Muslims helped Congress, but created polarisation among Hindus that helped BJP make huge political gains over the past decade. "AAP will take on both parties in the upcoming elections through the development plank," said Rao, who was in Udupi to meet party workers. AAP will have a region-specific election manifesto. "BJP is pursuing hardcore Hindutva, while Congress has a pro-minority approach. But AAP will go beyond religious lines and all will be involved in our success story," he said. "More than anything else, what is needed in the coastal region is peace, not communal disharmony. Ours is the most suitable party for coastal districts. We will set the right narrative in the elections," he added. ENS

BJP to organise Janotsava in all dists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BJP is organising "Janotsava" rallies in all districts starting from July 28 to mark the first anniversary of the Basavaraj Bommai government. As part of the programme, party leaders will create awareness among people on various initiatives of the state and central governments, said Kannada and Culture Minister Sunil Kumar here on Tuesday.

Hitting back at Congress and 75th birthday celebration of Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah, he said the people of Karnataka accept Janotsava, but not person-specific celebrations. "They will reject Siddaramotsava. There is a difference between BJP, Congress and JDS. We in BJP will go to the people and tell them what we have done over the last three years. We want all government programmes to reach all beneficiaries," he said.

"Former chief minister Siddaramaiah is trying to express his desire to become a CM again through his associate Zameer Ahmed Khan and it has hurt KPCC president DK Shivakumar. By issuing a notice to Zameer, Shivakumar is indirectly targeting Siddaramiah. Congress leaders, like Siddaramaiah, are known to have ruled by dividing people in the name of caste and religion. Society is not about one caste or religion and compromises all castes and religions. BJP is the only party that gives social justice to all sections. Ours is not a person-centric or family-centric party," he added. On August 28, a mega-event will be held in Doddaballapura to mark three years of BJP in office, he added.

Corruption rampant under BJP govt: Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CONGRESS leaders Siddaramaiah, DK Shivakumar and BK Hariprasad on Tuesday slammed BJP government's decision to celebrate one year of Basavaraj Bommai government and three years of the party rule in the state.

They said it is not Sadhana Sammelana, but a celebration of corruption of the BJP government.

Corruption has become rampant since BJP came to power in the state, while Karnataka and Bengaluru have turned into capitals of corruption in the country, they added.

Instead of doubling the income of farmers, the government has increased prices of fertilisers and pesticides. It has created history by imposing GST on milk products, they added.

"When questioned about the PSI recruitment scam, the government lied saying there was no illegality. Some people were arrested after our leaders put up evidence. Some of those involved in the scam were sent back without investigation," they said.

"Though Contractors Association president Kempanna complained to the Prime Minister about a 40 per cent commission being sought by ministers, why was it not investigated? A contractor and a worker from BJP, Santosh Patil from Belagavi, committed suicide unable to bear the harassment. Why was the former minister not questioned? When the chief minister, former chief minister and other leaders gave a clean chit to the ex-minister, how could the police conduct a fair probe," they sought to know.

Blocking info violation of freedom of speech: Twitter to High Court

IT contended that blocking of information from public access without issuing notice to the originators was gross violation of freedom of speech guaranteed to citizen-users of the Twitter Inc platform.

The court permitted Twitter Inc to furnish documents — the blocking order — which it referred to in its pleadings in a sealed cover and that the same should be deposited in the safe custody of the court.

The court also said it was open to Twitter Inc to serve those documents to the Central Government Panel counsel.

Rohatgi argued that blocking rules required reasons to be recorded for issuance of orders to block the accounts/URLs, as Twitter Inc was answerable to individual account holders to block their accounts. But no reasons were given while issuing such orders to block objectionable tweets. If such an order was complied with as it is, Twitter Inc would lose its entire business and would have to be closed, the senior counsel argued.

Twitter Inc stated that pursuant to the blocking orders, the Ministry issued a communication dated June 27, 2022 directing Twitter Inc to comply, failing which it would prescribe serious consequences against Twitter Inc, that is, withdrawal of the protection under Section 79(1) of the IT Act, as well as initiation of criminal proceedings under the provisions of the IT Act.

Highlighting that several of the originators of tweets were identifiable public figures and that some of the URLs contained political and journalistic content, Twitter Inc stated in the petition that contents of the twitter accounts and tweets in question by the Union government fell under the freedom of speech guaranteed under Article 19(1)(a) of the constitution and did not violate Section 69A of Information Technology Act.

Twitter Inc stated that to the best of its knowledge no notice under Rule 8 of the Blocking Rules had been provided to the user, nor any opportunity of hearing granted by the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology by directing the intermediary to remove the content/account of users without following the procedure laid down by the apex court to prevent the misuse blocking power", Twitter Inc alleged.

It has also contended that the action of suspension was not a temporary measure but would amount to the user whose account is blocked from accessing services on Twitter permanently.

There was no time limit specified in the orders in question, nor was there any review mechanism provided for reconsideration of the decision after a period of time. This is further evidence of the disproportionate nature of the blocking orders, Twitter claimed.

It was also stated in the petition that the blocking rules provide a format under Rule 6(2) of the act for a complaint initiating the blocking process by a Nodal Officer. However, the Rules do not prescribe a similar standard format for the passing of a blocking order. This shows legislative intent that a blocking order must be descriptive in nature, with application of mind and reasons to be recorded on a case to case basis. Failure to provide detailed reasons goes to the root of the matter and renders the orders liable to be quashed, Twitter Inc argued.

NEARLY 1,693 kg of red sanders worth Rs 2.68 crore that was illegally stored at a farmhouse in Hesaraghatta has been seized by the west division police. The police initially picked up a 31-year-old man who was appointed to look after the farmhouse when he had come along with his associate with samples of the red sanders to sell it to some prospective buyer at Timber Yard Layout near the satellite bus stand in Byatarayanapura. The other person had managed to escape. Based on his information, the police raided the farm house and seized the red sanders. The police arrested four more persons from Nelamangala who also had a few samples of red sanders.

The police have written to the jurisdictional revenue inspector seeking ownership details of the farmhouse as they were unable to find out the details of the exact owner.

Suspecting that the red sanders would have been illegally transported from neighbouring Andhra Pradesh, the police are also writing to the police there seeking their coordination to find out the kingpin and the possible smuggling route.

The accused are R Vinod, a resident of Kamakshipalya. He was arrested on Friday morning. His associate Ajay, a resident of T Dasarahalli had managed to escape. Based on Vinod's information, the police arrested Lakshmaiah, Sanjay, Raju and Krishna from Nelamangala area on Sunday afternoon.

"Vinod and Ajay had come on a bike with the samples of around 17 kg of red sanders. None of the five arrested are part of the bigger racket. They are all small fish and do not know about the smuggling. The red sanders is said to have been 40 to 50 years old," said the police. Two bikes have also been seized from the accused. The Byatarayanapura police have registered a case.

After 42 yrs, BDA gets nod to acquire land in HRBR Layout

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Supreme Court on Monday allowed the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) to go ahead with the acquisition of 3 acres and 23 guntas of land at HRBR Layout, valued at around Rs 70 crore. The BDA has been waiting for 42 years to take possession of this property on Banaswadi Main Road from a family that refused to part with it and dragged the agency to both the High Court and the Supreme Court.

"It is a momentous judgment. The BDA has already developed a layout here in the past, leaving out this portion due to litigation. We left it untouched since 1980 and developed our layout with properties acquired from others. Now, we can develop up to 35 sites of 40x60 sqft dimension on this property, thanks to the ruling. We will probably hand it over to the special category site allottees like sportspersons or award winners who have been waiting for 10 to 15 years to get a promised site from us," G Kumar, Executive Engineer, BDA North Division, told The New Indian Express. "Many who lost out on their sites in Arkavathy Layout due to denotification orders await alternative sites and they could also be provided sites here," he added. While the corner sites formed from the layout would be auctioned, the intermediate ones would be allotted.

Giving details, the official said that the BDA had notified the property of Narayan Reddy (Survey No. 345) for preliminary acquisition in 1977 and had issued the final notification in 1980. "The family took the BDA to court and filed a case in 1984. In its verdict in 1988, the court had ruled in favour of the acquisition. BDA deposited a sum of Rs 7 lakh for the property with the court and wanted to go ahead with it."

The family filed a writ petition in the High Court in 2014. The BDA filed a writ appeal in 2017 and the court ruled in favour of BDA on May 24, 2022.

"Reddy's children - Rama Reddy, Lokesh Reddy and Anupama - filed a case in the Supreme Court and the jury upheld the HC verdict issued two months ago in favour of BDA," Kumar said.

Some temporary buildings have come up at the place over the decades and they would be demolished to make way for creating sites. "The family would be handed over Rs 12 lakh as compensation which would include 15 per cent interest amount accumulated over the years," he added.

Zambian woman carrying heroin worth ₹30 cr held at KIA

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI), Bengaluru unit, on Monday intercepted and later arrested a Zambian national at the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) after they recovered four-and-a-half kg of heroin, which was concealed in her baggage. The market value of the banned narcotic drug is more than Rs 30 crore in the international grey market, sources said.

According to sources, the Zambian woman, aged 40, had travelled from Addis Ababa to Bengaluru on Ethiopian Airlines and landed at KIA at 8.30am on July 25. This was her first visit to India. Upon arrival, the DRI intercepted her and later arrested her after they recovered heroin from her baggage. "Her handler – also a Zambian had given her the consignment in Zambia. To conceal the origin of the contraband she travelled from there to Addis Ababa before boarding the Ethiopian Airlines to Bengaluru. He had instructed her to call him soon after landing in Bengaluru for further movement instruction," sources added.

"On July 21, the DRI, Bengaluru unit, arrested a Ugandan national, 30, who had ingested 80 capsules of methamphetamine weighing 1 kg worth Rs 4 crore in the international grey market," said sources.

"He was instructed to check in a hotel form his handler. The receivers of the contraband would have come to take the consignment after a week. In the meantime, he was told to excrete the capsules and keep them safely," sources added. "In both the cases, the handlers of the two mules had paid their air fare and given them some allowance. They were assured commission after safe delivery of the drugs," they added.

"The DRI on July 21 also seized 4.3 kg of pseudoephedrine from an international courier consignment which had originated from Chennai and was marked for shipment to New Zealand," sources said. "The seized drug is worth nearly a crore in the illicit market," sources added.

The streets resembled pools in several parts of the city and the cellars filled up with surging waters in apartments damaging the parked vehicles and posing a threat of electrocution though no such incidents were reported to from anywhere.

The rain which was about 8-10 cm in the early hours affected Cherlapally, Hayatnagar, Charminar, Saidabad, Amberpet and Himayatnagar.

River Musi is in spate filling the twin reservoirs Osmansagar and Himayatsagar. Flood water is being released downstream from both Osmansagar and Himayatsagar.

Following the downpour, the Telangana government sounded a high alert on Tuesday and directed all officials to ensure there was no loss of life.

Karnataka to have its first-ever firefly park in two years

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WHEN was the last time Bengalureans or those staying in urban areas saw fireflies flutter around? Those who have not need not be disappointed as Karnataka is all set to have its first-ever park dedicated to fireflies. If all goes as per plan, the park will become a reality in two years.

Pointing out that the number of fireflies in the environment has come down, researchers from the Environmental Management and Policy Research Institute (EMPRI) are now busy preparing the protocol for lab breeding of fireflies and are also surveying the Western Ghats and other forest patches to track the presence of fireflies.

EMPRI Director General Jagmohan Sharma told TNIE that this will be the first-ever park of its kind. He said, "We have started the breeding protocol and once we are confident that we can breed them in-house and have the capacity, it will be enhanced. Research is underway and it will take around two years to open the park."

The idea was also discussed at the recently-held international webinar organised by EMPRI on World Firefly Day. At the webinar, discussions took place on setting up the firefly park on the lines of Bannerghatta Butterfly Park. This will also be used to promote awareness about nature and tourism. Participants from 11 countries – Australia, Cuba, Japan, Malaysia, Vietnam, Pakistan, Philippines, Sri Lanka, the USA, Bangladesh and Singapore – attended the day-long webinar.

Sharma added, "The idea of protection of wildlife started in the 1980s, where species like lion, tiger and elephant were given importance. This was successfully done for 40 years and under its umbrella other species were to be given importance. Now it is time to give importance and protection to second and third-level species and fireflies are an integral part of it. Teams of entomologists have started the exercise of surveying and mapping the areas where fireflies are found in abundance, scattered and are extinct".

62 students take ill after consuming folic acid tablets in Saudatti school

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi

AT least 62 school students were admitted to hospital with complaints of vomiting and stomach ache soon after they consumed folic acid tablets after the mid-day meal in their school in Basidoni, Saudatti taluk, on Monday.

As usual, all the students of Government Primary School at Basidoni village were given folic acid tablets by the school authorities on Monday after the students drank milk soon after their mid-day meals.

"About 62 students were rushed to Saudatti General Hospital from the school with complaints of stomach ache and vomiting on Monday evening. The doctors found that the children had taken folic acid tablets immediately after having food and milk and that's why some of them had problems of vomiting and stomach ache due to acidity. However, all the students were given glucose saline at the hospital and the condition of all of them is stable. They were discharged late on Monday itself from the hospital," said District Health Officer of Belagavi, Dr Mahantesh Koni.

He said the same folic acid tablets were being given to the students in government schools once a week on Monday for the past several years.

"From the preliminary investigation, it was found that the students had minor health problems due to acidity and nothing else. We have brought the issue to all the senior officials of the Health Department," he added.

BEO of Saudatti, Karikatti, who was on the spot to help the students said the tablets were being given for the past 15 years to the government schools students in Saudatti to keep them healthy. All the students admitted to hospital were discharged the same day and their condition is stable, he said.

Although the condition of all 62 students of the school is stable, the Health Department has kept an ambulance ready in the village as a precautionary measure, according to the DHO.

AIADMK seeks CBI probe into ransacking of party HQ

T MURUGANANDHAM
@ Chennai

THE AIADMK led by Edappadi K Palaniswami (EPS) on Tuesday expressed dissatisfaction over the 'inaction' of the State police in investigating the violent incidents that took place on July 11 at party headquarters and urged the DGP to transfer the case to either CBI or an independent authority soon.

Former minister CVe Shanmugam, a senior leader of the party, submitted a representation in this regard to the DGP. In the representation, Shanmugam summed up what happened on July 11 at the AIADMK headquarters and that even after three complaints, police have not taken any step to start an investigation into the matter. Copies of the representation have also been sent to the State Home Secretary, Chennai Police Commissioner, and Inspector of Police, Royapettah police station.

"The police are yet to visit the AIADMK headquarters to assess the scene of the crime - that is, how the office was ransacked and the assets were destroyed there. Only after police visit can we touch any object there and rearrange the office. Until then, everything remains strewn around," a senior functionary told TNIE. The party is also planning to move court if there is no sufficient response from the police.

A hotel employee who entered the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) premises illegally on Monday was held by the Central Industrial Security Force personnel and handed over to police. He had on his person an expired entry pass.

According to a top source, the Airport Entry Pass (AEP) is an important ID document provided to the hundreds of staffers employed at the airport and different airlines as well as those employed in numerous jobs inside including housekeeping to facilitate easy access for them inside airport. It is provided only after extensive checks. The source said, "The individual had come to see off some person inside the airport using this pass. He is an employee of Hotel Mariott. On checking his credentials at the gate, security personnel found that the pass had expired. It is completely illegal to enter a highly secure area like the airport like this as it poses a security risk." He was handed over immediately to the airport police to initiate action against him. Airport police could not be reached despite numerous attempts.

PM to inaugurate Chess Olympiad

ENS @ Chennai

PM Narendra Modi will inaugurate the 44th Chess Olympiad here at a grand event at Jawaharlal Nehru Indoor Stadium on July 28. The PM launched the first-ever Chess Olympiad Torch Relay at the Indira Gandhi National Stadium in New Delhi on June 19. The torch travelled to 75 iconic locations in the country for over 40 days, traversing close to 20,000 km and culminating in Mahabalipuram, before heading over to the FIDE Headquarters, Switzerland.

The 44th Chess Olympiad will commence in Chennai on July 28 and go on till August 9, 2022. The prestigious competition, which has been organised since 1927, is being hosted in India for the first time and in Asia after 30 years. With 187 countries participating, this will be the largest participation in any Chess Olympiad so far. India is also fielding its biggest ever contingent in the competition, comprising 30 players across six teams. A PIB release said the PM will also attend the 42nd convocation of Anna University here. He will hand over gold medals and certificates to 69 gold medalists and address the gathering on the occasion.

According to the tentative schedule, the PM will arrive at Chennai airport at 4.45 pm by an IAF flight from Ahmedabad. 25 sandalwood trees axed in Karnataka forest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE state forest department officials are on the hunt for a gang that reduced 25 sandalwood trees, which were 4-5 years old, to mere stumps during a late night theft at the Gottiupura state forest in Hoskote. The incident occurred four days ago, and special teams have been formed to protect the forest patch, from where the trees were removed, and to find the culprits. The incident has put the ground staff on high alert to protect the sandalwood trees in the forests of Karnataka.

According to forest department officials, the Institute of Wood Science and Technology (IWST) is growing 1,000-1,500 sandalwood trees at a special patch in Gottiupura for research. Officials admitted that the area was not adequately protected initially as it is fenced and situated inside the forest.

The police are investigating the case, while forest department sleuths too are working parallelly to identify and nab the poachers.

A senior forest official said, "We suspect a big gang is involved in the incident as 25 trees have been axed. They must have surveyed the area and decided on the time of crime. While axing of even one or two trees is reported, this is the first time in the recent past that such a large number of trees have been cut. More teams have been deployed for security and patrolling at Gottipura and all the 70 forest blocks in Bengaluru Rural to protect sandalwood trees."

Sandalwood is the state tree of Karnataka and in the last state budget, the government announced a special programme for plantation and protection of the species.

SUNFLOWER CULTIVATION

'Bee'ting the odds through manual pollination

THINAKARAN RAJAMANI @Tenkasi

WITH the Ukraine war disrupting sunflower oil supply, South Tamil Nadu's farmers have chanced upon an opportunity to meet the demand. To make the most of it, farmers from Sambavar Vadakarai in Tenkasi district are pollinating crops manually.

"This is because we haven't had enough bees for natural pollination in recent years," explains Sheik Mohideen, deputy agricultural officer of Shengottai block. Scientists have flagged the decline in bee populations across the world for some years, citing pesticide use and climate change as causes.

Deputy agricultural officer Sheik Mohideen demonstrates manual pollination | EXPRESS

Besides, manual (hand) pollination yields better-quality seeds, say farmers. "I have been cultivating sunflower on four acres for the past eight years. Most of the time, the yield was poor. We informed agricultural officials, and they introduced us to hand pollination," says K Sivanan, a farmer.

But the task is labour intensive, and requires help from not just farmers' families, but also daily wage labourers. This is why it isn't practised in Thoothukudi district though officials are trying to promote it, K Navaneethan, president of Southern Dryland Farmers Association, points out, adding that most people prefer to work under MGNREGA.

As for why bees are disappearing from farms, bee scientist K Suresh says it's mainly due to indiscriminate use of pesticide on crops.

"This is why farmers are advised to use insecticides like imidacloprid, which doesn't affect bees as much. But recent research shows even imidacloprid affects bees, adds Suresh, who works at the Horticulture College and Research Institute in Periyakulam.

STATE GOVERNMENTS SHOULD RELEASE SUBSIDIES TO DISCOMS

Electricity supply in the country is no more a controversial subject or the pain that it was a few decades ago. We got our act together since, and the Central Electricity Authority (CEA) projects an energy surplus of 6.4% for the country in the previous financial year. On the other hand, while huge strides were made in power generation, the distribution side, managed mainly by state-run power distribution companies (discoms), is still in a mess. Consumers, especially in rural areas, continue to suffer extended outages, lousy maintenance and unstable voltage. The two main reasons are: first, there are considerable losses in transmission and distribution; second, tariffs—regulated by political expedience—are often below the cost of buying power from the power generating companies (gencos).

In this scenario, government subsidies for the discoms are a crucial lifeline. Unfortunately, state governments have not released the promised subsidies. They have not paid their power bills like other consumers in recent months, creating a whopping unpaid backlog of ₹1.4 lakh crore. This was revealed at a recent presentation to a meeting of state chief secretaries. Significantly, the total dues discoms owe to power generation units are about ₹1.2 lakh crore. This means if the state governments release the funds due to the discoms, the latter would, in fact, be in surplus.

The slowdown of commercial and manufacturing activity during Covid only adds to the power distribution companies' woes. Demand for power fell for the first time in 35 years, creating additional losses of ₹16,000 crore per month. The long-term solution is to address this delicate balance between power generators, distribution companies and the consumer. The privatisation of distribution, in many cases, is successful with better technical efficiency and fewer leakages. Delhi, for instance, has reduced its transmission and delivery losses from a stupendous 53% to just 8% after privatisation. In the short-term, though, the bail-outs were announced by the Centre (₹1.35 lakh crore). And monies state governments owe must be speedily released to ensure distribution companies don't make life even more difficult for consumers.

SIGNIFICANCE OF TN'S POWER TARIFF HIKE

The move by the Tamil Nadu government to hike the electricity tariff is remarkable on several counts. Being a politically-sensitive issue, successive governments had avoided revising tariffs, with no revision since 2014. Performing under one umbrella, the power generation and distribution utility has ratcheted up a massive loss of ₹1.13 lakh crore by March 2021, while its debt ballooned to ₹1.54 lakh crore in the absence of annual financial support from past governments. The TN government, struggling to improve revenue resources, has reached a point where mindless funding of the state-run Tamil Nadu Generation and Distribution Corporation Ltd (Tangedco) is no longer an option.

The Central government has meanwhile given an ultimatum to several state-run power companies to undertake immediate reforms. Though the hike looks substantially high, it's barely making up for the loss, primarily because of the ever-increasing transmission and generation costs. Though TN has an impressive array of renewable power plants such as wind and solar, Tangedco heavily depends on thermal power and purchases from private companies to meet the rising demand.

Over the years, the cash-strapped utility has found it difficult to spend on infrastructure works such as substations and transmission lines, the lifeline of an electricity network, leaving consumers in the lurch. The state has a vast potential for solar power and needs to focus on generation as a long-term strategy. Apart from the tariff revision, the Stalin government is also investing in enhancing the transmission and distribution lines. A consortium of consultants led by EY India is handholding Tangedco to improve its overall performance. Unfortunately, the state that tops the list of wind power production and is a model for others to emulate has a long way to go in terms of overall performance. Consumers will be ready to pay for quality power if it is made available without any interruption. Tamil Nadu needs more electricity to power its dreams of becoming a $1-trillion economy. The state needs to create a conducive environment for companies to erect power plants.

There is a need to question rigid notions about the country's earliest languages and rethink Sanskrit as a rarefied literary culture of little reach or relevance

SANSKRIT & SOCIETY: BEYOND POLITICS OF LANGUAGE - III

SOUMYADIP SINHA

SHONALEEKA KAUL

Associate Professor, Centre for Historical Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University

Contrary to misconceptions in certain circles today associating a narrow obscurantism with Sanskrit, this series is a reminder of the vast and variegated repertoire and reach of this prodigious language. This repertoire has included not only virtually all knowledge systems known to humankind but a multiplicity of voices and visions.

Yet the tendency in modern scholarship has been to label Sanskrit literary culture elitist and insular, having little to do with the wider world. In the previous piece, we interrogated this assumption vis a vis Sanskrit drama (natya, a sub-genre of kavya), discovering its considerable public interface. Today we extend that enquiry to the question of language use in early India and myths surrounding it.

While intriguingly little is known for sure about speech practice in antiquity, there have nonetheless developed several well-established views about the ideology of languages like Sanskrit. It is believed to have been not a spoken tongue but an esoteric language of learning, "particularly of the brahmin caste and of its religion", as Thomas Burrow put it, while Prakrit is deemed a popular tongue, "the language of the masses". Relatedly, there exists the influential theory among scholars that in the plays and indeed in early Indian society, Sanskrit was spoken only by high status men while lowly characters and women spoke Prakrit. In other words, a linguistic hierarchy is assumed to exist in the way Sanskrit and Prakrit are mutually deployed in literature, and this is believed to correspond to socio-economic hierarchy.

This is such a neat and persuasive interpretation that the fact that there are telling exceptions drops quite from view. The vidushaka, for example, the jester and hero's companion, is consciously a brahmana but always speaks in Prakrit. Merchants and courtiers are also required to do so. On the other hand, parivrajikas (ascetics) are women but use Sanskrit even though queens usually do not and courtesans may. Children, even when male and high-caste, speak only Prakrit.

In fact the section on languages in the 2nd century Natyashastra (NS), the earliest Indian work of dramaturgy, attests other characters and situations that do not conform to the simplistic socio-economic theory. It clarifies the actual grounds for allocating tongues in drama, from characterisation, ethnicity and vocation of protagonists, to regional phonetic peculiarities of audiences, as well as blanket considerations like "special times and situations". Clearly, kavya's understanding of language use was a self-conscious one, and so too its choice to be bilingual in the first place, but the logic was not as stock as baldly reflecting social status.

This is reinforced by the fact that Prakrit, or rather the eight Prakrits as they have come down to us, are very much literary, not colloquial, dialects—as cultivated and standardised as Sanskrit. The 8th century Kavyadarsha, an influential treatise on kavya composition, refers to both as shishta (grammatically disciplined/systematised) and regards both as tongues fit for poetic composition, so that no literary privilege is really inherent in one or the other.

Some famous kavyas in Prakrit are Hala's 2nd century Gathasattasai, Pravarasena's 5th century Setubandha and the 8th century Gaudavaho by Vakapatiraja. Scholars also now suspect that the Prakrits used in the earliest inscriptions, the 3rd century BCE Ashokan edicts, were read aloud by state officials to the populace at large rather than being directly legible by the latter.

The Kavyadarsha does describe Sanskrit as daivi vak (divine speech) but this seems to have been on account of it being perfected speech "worked out by the sages". This perfection and precision indeed explain why it is today deemed the ideal choice for computer programming and artificial intelligence by NASA!

At the same time, the term that ancient grammarians used for Sanskrit, namely, bhasha ('that which is spoken'), suggests that its knowledge may have been more commonplace than we imagine, though its correct or eloquent application would have been confined to the learned, as with all languages. We are reminded here of the NS' admonition that a Sanskrit play "should contain no obscure and difficult word and be intelligible to country people."

Moreover, the fact that they were employed in the same play shows that Sanskrit and Prakrit belonged to a common speech community. A mutual intelligibility for the two on the part of the heterogenous audiences—which, as we saw last time, gathered at street crossings and temple courtyards no less than in royal assemblies to watch these performances—must be assumed.

In fact some scholars argue that Sanskrit and Prakrit may have been not different languages as much as different registers of speech in a diglossic situation. The NS does speak of them as the "two ways (dvividham) of recitation in the common language which relates to the four castes" (jatibhashashrayam caturvarnya samashrayam).

Though this is hardly a comprehensive survey of the matter, it suffices to question rigid notions about India's earliest languages. Seen together, there is clearly a need to not only review the supposed subalternity of Prakrits but rethink Sanskrit as a rarefied language and literary culture of little reach or relevance to society.

LONG-FORM CONTENT IN THE AGE OF REELS & SHORTS

ANURADHA GOYAL

Author and founder of IndiTales

I have been creating digital content since 2004, from the time when blogging was a new tool and none of us knew what the future held for it. Many platforms, tools and trends have come and gone in these 18 years. Only a few managed to sustain themselves in the long run. Most bloggers have also transformed into Instagrammers—those good with visuals become YouTubers—who find it easier to shoot than write, and podcasters. We have always been a society that loves to listen rather than read. Then there are micro-blogging platforms like Twitter and Koo that let you say something quickly and even instantly generate a reflexive response.

The latest trend is 15-second videos called 'reels' on Instagram and 'shorts' on YouTube. Both the platforms are actively pushing them. YouTube even has a $100 million special fund for shorts creators. Creativity has no limits, so you can do whatever you want in these short-form videos.

However, when you randomly browse to see what people are posting or trending, you typically see people dancing to popular songs or performing on trending dialogue at their homes, rooftops, gardens, and just about anywhere. Bumping into a shoot during your morning or evening walks is not unusual. Then there are motivational speakers, financial advisors, and astrology consultants trying to tell you one mantra per video as a one-pill solution for all your problems. If you do not like something, swipe and move on to the next video.

Some of us have focused on long-form content through these waves. Yes, we have our presence on all these platforms, but the core of our creative work stays on our blogs. Many questions have come my way of late on the relevance of long-form content.

On a Twitter spaces session on content creation, a digital marketer proclaimed that long-form content is dead as if I am talking about the last century. The logic being the latest myth—attention spans are shrinking; no one wants to see anything more than a few seconds. If you cannot convey your point in 30 seconds, you can forget it. Most of this comes from the marketing and public relations professionals. Remember, these people exist somewhere between the content creators and brands.

Now, when I look at the statistics of my travel blog, I can see that the number of people reading us every month is still in the six digits. They choose to stay on the pages for the few minutes required to read the lengthy articles. They are taking time to comment—it takes two to four minutes for a genuine comment. Even our decade-old articles are still performing well. Clients are still engaging with us for long stories.

We see many long-form content platforms launched with a subscription model where you can read the well-researched, well-articulated articles only as a paid subscriber. They do rich, deep-dive stories that take a lot of time, effort and resources to research and write. There are long-form podcasts that are performing well. Advertising is not a viable model though it continues to be a prime model for most content platforms. Many of these platforms manage to sustain themselves, indicating demand for long-form content.

Long-form content takes time to create, and its impact snowballs—slowly and over a period of time. It is like Chayawanprash that you eat in childhood, giving you good health in middle age. Long-form content expects its consumers to invest not just time but also their focused attention. It neither doubts their intelligence nor intends to bring it down. In fact, it wants to add to what they already know, give them additional dimensions to see the same subject and widen their horizon with deep insights.

Why is the myth of 'long-form content is dead' being propagated? It is because it is easy to create short content and even easier to gather statistics on it, for it has a short shelf life. You post a reel, run a campaign, and the next day you can show the statistics to the client and bill them the third day. Statistics of long-form content take time to build and would probably never match the 15-second lifestyle video. Impact, well, that is impossible to compare.

Short-form content works for equally short shelf-life situations like the release of a film or an event where you want to influence the audience. Your instantaneous window for execution is short, and decisions can be instant. For most other things, the audience needs to be informed and educated, and they will buy when they need to. I can add a destination to your wish list through my content, but you will travel when your family has the time, budget and priorities. Now, would you remember a destination that you were inspired to visit after a trusted person described it to you or when you saw a beautiful model just posing there? I want to know.

Murmu's speech

This is with reference to President Murmu personifies poor's aspirations (July 26). She made a statement by wearing the Santhali saree that her sister-in-law brought for her. In her relatively short speech, she mentioned Rani Velu Nachiyar, Rani Gaidinliu and Rani Chennamma. She has kickstarted her term in a very positive manner and hopefully, she will use her term in office to ensure the upliftment of the poor and the downtrodden. But we must also praise former President Ramnath Kovind for the graceful way in which he handed over the baton to his successor.

Kallakurichi vandalism

This is with reference to Vandalised school not fit for use; all furniture has been damaged or stolen (July 26). Even before ascertaining the real cause for the death of a girl student, the school has been destroyed in such a way that it has become unfit for use. This speaks volumes about the inefficiency of the state's police force. The future of more than 3000 students is in danger. In addition to punishing all the guilty, adequate and suitable compensation should be given to the school to ensure that it continues its functions unhindered.

No sir, no madam

Apropos of No more 'sir', 'madam' at local bodies a success (July 26). Everyone is equal. Those who are at the government offices ought to serve people and not expect people to serve them. This attempt to eradicate the colonial remnants of 'sir' and 'madam' was a daring initiative. Let us hope this trend will spread to other places too. Change must start at the grassroots level. I appreciate The New Indian Express for covering this story.

Good and bad touch

Apropos of 'Good touch, bad touch' confusing, replace them: Legal body (July 26). In order to impart proper knowledge about good and bad touch, sex education should be made mandatory in all schools. It will help students to become aware of the basic ways to protect themselves. Otherwise, most children do not know when they face such a dangerous situation.

Respecting one's body

There are many problems that school children are currently facing. Parents must collaborate with teachers and the government to teach children how to defend themselves. After all, parents must care about their children's future. Teaching their children about such basic things not only helps children protect themselves but also helps them respect the privacy of their own bodies.

Apropos of 819 suicides in the three forces in last five years (July 26). It is upsetting to see our army personnel commit suicide. The same tough formation that helped them combat the enemy from outside was ineffective against the adversary inside. It is important for the concerned ministry to support efforts to save our saviours.

RISK FOR DOCS IN LINE OF DUTY

How many doctors in India have succumbed to Covid-19 since its outbeak in 2020? Well, the Central government says it doesn't know. But the Union Health Ministry and the Indian Medical Association (IMA) are clearly at cross-purposes over the issue. INTERVIEW

NEED TO RAISE PEOPLE'S ISSUES: MARGARET ALVA

OPPOSITION vice-presidential candidate Margaret Alva tells Shahid Faridi that it is time to stand up and put up a fight to the BJP. Excerpts:

The odds are stacked against you in the vice-presidential election with the NDA government having a clear majority in Parliament. What is the message that you want to convey by entering the contest?
I felt the need to raise issues, which are of concern to everyone across party-lines. There are issues like constitutional rights of people, of states. Look at what is happening in Karnataka. What you wear, what you eat, even whom students mix with is questioned, they are beaten.

I was in the Rajya Sabha for 24 years and five years in the Lok Sabha. What's happening today in Parliament? This is not Parliament that we knew. Therefore, the need is for somebody to come forward and say this is not on. Parliament has run for so many years despite differences. They opposed Mrs (Indira) Gandhi, they abused Mrs Gandhi. But Parliament functioned. We debated.

Parliament is not about majoritarianism. It is about discussions and expression of the concerns of people whom the MPs represent. Look at the way farm laws were withdrawn. No debate. 20-22 bills passed in 12 minutes. I am appealing to the conscience of MPs to defend the Constitution.

Opposition parties aren't united in support of your candidature.
They have their own problems. Parties which are openly supporting me are being threatened. NCP is supporting me, but look at Praful Patel. JMM is supporting me, and see what is happening in Jharkhand. Same thing is happening in the South. I know Jagan Reddy is with me. They don't let people function. They've arrested Mamata Banerjee's minister. The Delhi CM was telling me they think he would support me so they have started something about his liquor policy. You call it a fair election.

You don't think it's a fair election.
When every political party is threatened, then how can there be a fair election?

Is it the Centre's threat or are there other issues that have kept opposition from backing you?
There may have been some differences. I know nothing about that. I still believe that a consensus will be worked out before August 6 when the election will take place.

Who all do you expect to support you?
Talks are on. Many MPs, even in NDA, have concerns about what's happening. I have a rapport with many.

Was that the reason why your phone got redirected?
My phone went dead. Then all my calls were directed to somewhere else. The MTNL chairman had to intervene and restore it. It is strange that only my phone should have technical issues after I had spoken to chief ministers, parties and MPs. Suddenly, it went dead. Why do you get frightened by my talking to people?

What do you think about your opponent?
Everybody knows about him. He has been a governor like me, a lawyer like me, he has been in Parliament like me. He has started his political career in Congress like me. I think he has changed four-five parties. But the most important is he spent three years fighting a lady in Bengal, and the poor man comes to Delhi to fight an election and is faced by another woman.

SERIOUS ISSUE

SC seeks govt stand on poll freebies by parties

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday sought to know from the Central government whether political parties could be prevented from promising and distributing 'irrational freebies' during election campaigns.

A bench of Chief Justice of India NV Ramana and Justices Krishna Murari and Hima Kohli also asked the Centre to check whether the suggestions of the Finance Commission could be sought for a solution.

During the hearing, the CJI sought the opinion of senior advocate and Rajya Sabha MP Kapil Sibal, who was present in court for some other matter, on the issue.

Sibal said it was a serious issue but difficult to tackle politically. "The Finance Commission, when it does allocations to various states, can take into account the debt of the state and the quantum of freebies. Finance commission is the appropriate authority to deal with it. Maybe we can invite the commission to look into this aspect. The Centre cannot be expected to issue directions," Sibal submitted.

The bench then asked Additional Solicitor General K M Nataraj to seek the Commission's view on Sibal's suggestions and posted the matter for further hearing on August 3.

PMLA, FEMA stings sharper under NDA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Centre on Tuesday patted itself on the back for conducting more raids and searches on alleged violators of the 2002 Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) and the 1999 Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA) than was done by the Congress-led UPA dispensation.

"During the first nine years of administration of PMLA (FY2004-05 to FY2013-14), small number of searches (112) were carried out", resulting in "attachment of proceeds of crime of ₹5,346.16 crore and filing of 104 prosecution complaints". During the same period, trial courts neither convicted any person accused of money laundering nor confiscated any property under PMLA, the Finance Ministry said in response to a question in the Rajya Sabha.

In contrast, between FY2014-15 and FY2021-22, "in order to dispose of pending investigations in old cases and to complete investigation in new cases in time (a) time-bound manner under PMLA, 3,010 searches were conducted during the last eight years".

This, according to the Finance Ministry, "resulted in attachment of proceeds of crime worth ₹99,356 crore, filing of 888 cases and conviction of 23 persons/entities", besides "confiscation of proceeds of crime to the tune of ₹869.31 crore".

Giving its rationale behind the spike in the number of searches by the Enforcement Directorate (ED), the government said this showed its "commitment to prevent money laundering and improved systems for gathering financial intelligence through use of technology, better inter-agency cooperation and exchange of information both domestically and internationally".

Between FY2004-05 and FY2013-14, 571 searches were conducted and 8,586 cases were taken up for investigation under FEMA, resulting in issuance of show cause notices in 2,780 cases and adjudication of 1,312 show cause notices, which led to imposition of penalty of ₹1,754.33 crore. At the same time, assets to the tune of about ₹14 crore were seized under FEMA, the government said.

Citing figures, the Finance Ministry claimed that between FY2014-15 and FY2021-22, the ED, using FEMA as a weapon, conducted 996 searches and took up 22,330 cases for probe. This resulted in the issuance of show cause notices in 5,329 cases and adjudication of 5,160 show cause notices, "imposing penalty of ₹6,376.51 crore". Also, assets to the tune of ₹7,066 crore were seized under FEMA.

The Ministry said till March this year, 992 complaints were filed in trial courts under PMLA convicting 23 accused while only one accused was discharged.

The MHA said that state governments "have also been advised to share the particulars of those illegal migrants who have wrongfully obtained Aadhaar cards with UIDAI for appropriate legal action".

India slams China, Pak bid to include 3rd nation in CPEC

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

INDIA on Tuesday debunked a bid by China and Pakistan to include third countries in the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), saying it passes through illegally occupied Indian territory and that such a move is unacceptable.

India's response came after a meeting on the CPEC project took place on July 21 wherein Pakistan and China sought the participation of "interested third parties" in mutually beneficial cooperation opened up by the economic corridor, a key part of which passes through Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK).

"India has seen reports on the two countries encouraging the proposed participation of third countries in so-called CPEC projects. Any such actions by any party directly infringe on India's sovereignty and territorial integrity," according to Ministry of External Affairs spokesperson Arindam Bagchi.

India has opposed CPEC, which includes a network of highways, rail links, power plants, manufacturing units and massive infrastructure projects launched in 2013, on the ground that projects are being built in illegally occupied Indian territory.

"India firmly and consistently opposes projects in the so-called CPEC, which are in Indian territory that has been illegally occupied by Pakistan. Such activities are inherently illegal, illegitimate and unacceptable, and will be treated accordingly by India," he added.

CPEC was launched as a flagship venture under Chinese President Xi Jinping's Belt and Road Initiative.

Defence panel clears proposals worth ₹28,732 cr

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

The Defence Acquisition Council on Tuesday cleared an important first step for buying military equipment and weapons worth ₹28,732 crore, by accepting they were necessary for force. The proposals include procuring swarm drones, bulletproof jackets and carbines under the indigenously designed, developed and manufactured scheme to promote self-reliance.

The council's meeting was chaired by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh. The approvals are expected to provide impetus to the domestic small arms manufacturing industry. They also came amid stand-off with the China along the Line of Actual Control in Ladakh.

Bulletproof jackets with Indian Standard BIS VI level of protection were put on the procurement list "considering the demand of enhanced protection against the threat of enemy snipers for our troops deployed along the Line of Control, and in close combat operations in counter-terrorism scenario," the defence ministry said.

Also on the buy list are about 4 lakh close quarter battle carbines for the services for conventional and hybrid warfare and counter-terrorism at the borders.

Since drones were a force multiplier in military operations in recent conflicts across the world, the council approved the procurement of autonomous surveillance and armed drone swarms.

A proposal to procure 14 fast patrol vessels for the Indian Coast Guard with 60% Indian content, too, has been cleared. The council also approved the Navy's proposal to procure an upgraded 1,250KW marine gas turbine generator for power generation onboard Kolkata class of ships.

Also among the approved proposals are guided extended range rocket ammunition, area denial munition Type I and infantry combat vehicle — command, which have been designed and developed by DRDO. The total value of these three proposals is ₹8,599 crore.

The extended range rocket ammo has a range of 75 km with accuracy of 40 metres. The Type I ammo contains dual purpose sub munitions capable of neutralising tanks and armoured personnel carriers

No abode for Asiatic lions outside Gujarat?

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

IT seems the Asiatic Lions will not have a second abode outside Gujarat? While the Supreme Court had in 2013 had directed the Centre to shifting Asiatic Lions, found only in Gir, Gujarat, to a suitable place outside the state to avoid mass extinction due to an epidemic, the Centre is working to move the big cats to newly identified sites within the state only. The reason, apparently, is Gujarat's reluctance to share the animal with other states.

The Gir forest is the only abode of Asiatic Lions in the world. According to the 2020 Census, the lion population there had registered an increase of 25% in the last five years and now stood at 674. However, the growing population of lions in the state has become a cause of concern and the authorities realise the growing challenges of habitat protection.

According to Union Ministry of Environment and Forests, a committee was constituted with a view to assess the suitability of habitat for lions in potential sites in Gujarat and make recommendations regarding the facilitation of natural dispersal of lions and the modalities for the establishment of the lion population in newly identified sites in the State of Gujarat.

"The ministry is providing financial assistance to the State of Gujarat for lion conservation activities including habitat improvement, water management, grassland development, and prey augmentation. These activities will also facilitate the natural dispersal of lions beyond the Gir landscape," the ministry told the Lok Sabha. However, it skipped answering if it plans to shift Asiatic Lion to other states.

A ministry official said Gujarat has clarified it's not willing to move the big cats to any other states "lions being the pride of the state".

Congress leader Jignesh Mevani meets kin of the deceased in Botad on Tuesday | PTI

Politics over tragedy

The hooch tragedy in the 'dry state" has come as a major embarrassment to police and the ruling BJP. AAP's Arvind Kejriwal said, "The question is if Gujarat is a dry state, how is alcohol being sold openly? Who is benefitting?" He visited Bhavnagar government hospital and met families of the victims. Congress leaders also met the kin of the deceased at Rojid village of Botad. Gujarat Congress working president and MLA from Vadgam, Jignesh Mevani said, "In the land of Gandhi and Sardar, this is what we find."

Gujarat hooch death toll reaches 32; 78 in hospital

Government forms committee to probe matter; report in three days

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE death toll due to consumption of spurious liquor in Gujarat went up to 32 on Tuesday, police said, adding that at least 78 people are being treated at Bhavnagar and Ahmedabad Civil Hospitals.

The incident came to light on Monday after people from Rojid village fell ill after allegedly consuming spurious liquor.

"There are 24 people who have died in Botad district and 56 people are being treated at hospital. We have arrested several accused involved in supplying spurious liquor and two FIRs are lodged," Bhavnagar IG Ashok Yadav said.

At least six people of Dhandhuka taluka have died, while 12 are admitted to Ahmedabad Civil Hospital. The death toll is likely to go up, police said.

The state government on Tuesday formed a committee to probe the tragedy. Gujarat Minister of State for Home, Harsh Sanghvi said, "Subhash Trivedi, IG (CID-crime), will head the committee, which will give its report within three days."

At a press conference in Gandhinagar, Ashish Bhatia, DGP, said, "The kingpin is Jayesh Khavadia, who works with a firm dealing in methyl alcohol. He had stolen 600 litres and sold it to his cousins Vinod and Sanjay Bhikhabhai for ₹40,000."

"A bootlegger, identified as Vipul Kavadiya, who had brought the alcohol from Vinod, also died after drinking illicit liquor," he added.

Punjab to get 5th AG in 10 months as Sidhu resigns

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

Anmol Rattan Sidhu

Vinod Ghai likely to be new AG

Sources say there were differences between Sidhu and the government over appointment of law officers.. Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann is said to have cleared the name of senior advocate Vinod Ghai as the new Punjab AG

PUNJAB Advocate General (AG) Anmol Rattan Sidhu has resigned from his post citing personal reasons. He remained in office for just four months. In the last 10 months, the state is now set to have its fifth AG. Senior advocate Vinod Ghai is likely to be appointed as the next AG.

Sidhu was appointed on the post when the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government came into power in the state in March this year. In his resignation letter dated July 19, written to Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann, Sidhu has written, "I am really thankful to the party for giving me a chance to represent the office of Advocate General, Punjab. Due to my personal reasons, I won't be able to serve this prestigious office, therefore, I hereby tender my resignation which may be kindly be accepted at the earliest."

Sources say there were differences between Sidhu and the government over appointment of law officers. Mann has apparently cleared the name of Ghai as new Punjab AG. The file has been sent to Punjab Governor Banwarilal Purohit for formal approval, according to sources. Ghai, who earned his LLB degree from Panjab University in 1989, was designated as a senior advocate in May 2012.

Mann said Sidhu resigned from the post due to personal reasons. "I had requested him to continue if he could, but he expressed his inability due to personal reasons," the chief minister said.

Sidhu expressed satisfaction with his team's performance over the last four months. Replying to a question on the handling of several cases, including those related to the 2015 sacrilege incidents and against gangster Lawrence Bishnoi, Sidhu said he and his team performed with full sincerity, and added that the state government had also praised their efforts.

Sidhu took the post after senior advocate Deepinder Singh Patwalia, who was appointed as the Advocate General of Punjab on Nov. 19, 2021 by the then Charanjit Singh Channi government, resigned in March, a day after the Congress was routed out of power by the Aam Aadmi Party in the Assembly elections. Patwalia had earlier replaced senior advocate APS Deol who had resigned due to opposition from within the Congress. Deol was also appointed by the Channi government after senior advocate and Supreme Court lawyer Atul Nanda resigned days after Capt Amarinder Singh stepped down as the chief minister in September last year.

Transfers trigger minister-MLA tiff

The unofficial transfer season has arrived, which means MLAs are knocking on the doors of ministers to get their chosen bureaucrats transferred. Ruling Congress MLAs have stepped up their pressure tactics for transfers. With election due next year, failure in realising the MLAs' desires this year may lead to moments of fallout. In one such tiff, an angry MLA recently went to a minister's chamber and reprimanded him. Many said the clash reached a point of physical grappling. Later, the MLA took the matter to CM Ashok Gehlot and got his way. Post the revolt of Sachin Pilot, it is said that Congress MLAs have become more powerful than even the ministers.

'Physical, mental torture': Ragging issue hits Indore medical college

ANURAAG SINGH @Bhopal

THE police in Madhya Pradesh's Indore registered a case on Sunday under IPC sections dealing with obscene acts and criminal intimidation, besides provisions under the Anti-Ragging Act 2009, against senior MBBS students of MGM Medical College on a complaint by the college administration.

Fearing reprisal by seniors, the juniors had made an anonymous complaint to UGC's Anti Ragging Helpline. The complaint was accompanied by audio-visual evidence, including WhatsApp chats. According to the complaint, the junior students were confined to a flat, and their mobile phones were snatched from them. They were forced to do sit-ups, slap each other so hard that the sound is loud and clear, made to perform sex acts with a pillow or with batchmates, and compelled to make abusive comments about female batchmates.

"The matter was reported to the police on Sunday," said college dean Dr Sanjay Dixit.

"We're recording students' statements. We'll identify the accused and locate the flat where the ragging took place," said Sanyogitaganj police station in-charge Tehzeeb Qazi.

As per the complaint, the juniors were tortured inside a house located near the college campus for up to five hours per visit. They were warned by the seniors against reporting the matter to the authorities otherwise "their five years in the college would be ruined."

The juniors said instead of helping them, some professors supported ragging. "There have been incidents when the professors have said ragging is necessary for personality development," the complaint said.

JHARKHAND

Political uncertainty looms as JMM, BJP claim defection

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

AMID claims and counter-claims by the ruling JMM and opposition BJP about large-scale defection of legislators, political uncertainty is looming over Jharkhand.

The BJP claims that 21 JMM MLAs are in touch. However, the JMM has declared that 16 BJP MLAs are willing to join it. In the 81-member Assembly, the JMM along with the Congress has 46 MLAs. The BJP has 25 legislators.

The fluid situation is due to the legal trouble being faced by CM Hemant Soren and his associates, both in the Jharkhand High Court and the Election Commission of India, over charges of corruption and misuse of power.

The BJP has already appealed to the EC to disqualify Soren for the alleged irregularities in granting mining leases and also on transactions of some shell companies allegedly operated by his family members and associates.

The cross-voting in the Presidential polls by more than half of the Congress MLAs in favour of NDA's Droupadi Murmu has added to the flux. Post Presidential polls, the Congress is jittered by fears of BJP's 'Operation Lotus.' Congress sources say the leadership is keeping an eye on "suspected MLAs."

BJP's legislature party leader Babulal Marandi, however, has rejected speculation. "Everybody knows the JMM. Since power lies in the wrong hands, there has been all-round loot. The JMM is nothing but a sinking ship which nobody would like to board," said Marandi.

State Congress chief Rajesh Thakur says his party MLAs are united and there is no danger to the Jharkhand government. "Such questions are asked again and again because BJP keeps spreading such rumors," said Thakur.

ED SUMMONS SOREN'S PRESS ADVISOR

The ED on Tuesday summoned CM Hemant Soren's press advisor Abhishek Prasad alias Pintu for interrogation in the illegal mining scam case. Prasad's name came up during the interrogation of Soren's representative Pankaj Mishra, who was arrested on July 19. Prasad is said to be associated with Soren for several years. ED sources said he has been asked to appear before it on Aug. 1.

Lakhimpur Kheri: HC denies bail to Ashish Mishra

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

THE Lucknow Bench of Allahabad High Court on Tuesday rejected the bail plea of Ashish Mishra alias Monu, the key accused in Lakhimpur Kheri violence case and son of Union Minister of State for Home, Ajay Mishra 'Teni'.

Dismissing the bail plea, the single bench of Justice Krishna Pahal said the accused could not be granted bail as he was politically so influential that he would influence witnesses and affect the trial if granted bail.

Earlier, the Bench had reserved its order on Mishra's bail plea on July 15.

Justice Pahal also made an observation over media's role in the incident, saying that of late, media was seen overstepping the sanctity of judiciary in high-profile criminal cases as was evident in Jessica Lal, Indrani Mukherjee and Aarushi Talwar cases.

Reading out the order, Justice Pahal said: "The presence of the three vehicles at the spot from one of which the applicant (Ashish Mishra) was seen coming out is a crucial circumstance weighing against him."

The bench expressed concern on the incident saying that if both the sides (the applicant and the victim) had observed a bit of restraint, eight human lives would not have been lost.

They want to finish Shiv Sena: Uddhav hits out at Shinde

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

SHIV Sena chief Uddhav Thackeray has bemoaned the party rebels plotting against him at a time when he had been laid up for a spinal surgery and couldn't move his limbs.

In an interview with the party mouthpiece Saamna on Tuesday, Uddhav hit out at CM Eknath Shinde and his supporter MLAs for their "greed for power" even after Shinde got number two position in the MVA government and the party.

"He (Eknath Shinde) is the chief minister of Maharashtra. Now he wants to gobble up his mother party – Shiv Sena. This is demon-like greediness that no one can satisfy," Uddhav said.

"He wants to be the Shiv Sena president. Even if we had given him the CM's post, he would not have stopped there. Sena has faced many revolts, but no one tried and succeeded to finish the mother party. But now they want to finish Shiv Sena with the BJP's help," said Uddhav.

"I will not blame him or these rebel MLAs. It is my fault that I trusted them blindly. Imagine, they conspired against me when I was in hospital," said Uddhav.

The ex-CM said the rebel faction wants to "steal his Shiv Sena and Balasaheb Thackeray's legacy as well".

"If they claim they are right by breaking Shiv Sena, then let's face elections, let's go to public court where their decision will be final. If people reject us, then we are ready to sit at home," Uddhav said.

SC to hear Uddhav group's plea against EC proceedings on Aug. 1

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Tuesday fixed Aug. 1 as the date for hearing a fresh plea by the Uddhav Thackeray-led faction against Election Commission proceedings on a petition by Eknath Shinde-led group for recognition as the real Shiv Sena. Kapil Sibal, appearing for the Thackeray group, urged the bench comprising Chief Justice N V Ramana, and Justices Krishna Murari and Hima Kohli that the proceeding before EC need to be stayed as it would impact the hearing in the case before the SC. The top court said it would tag the fresh plea with pending ones and hear it together.

TMC minister connected to more irregularities in school recruitment: ED

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

'Scam in primary school posts too'

ED said it has recovered papers from Partha Chatterjee's house that indicate his involvement in recruitment of teachers in primary school, besides the alleged scam in recruitment through SSC in high schools

EVIDENCE has emerged about the involvement of Partha Chatterjee in more than one school recruitment scam, the Enforcement Directorate (ED) said on Tuesday, the first day of the Trinamool Congress minister's interrogation in the central agency's custody.

The ED said it has recovered incriminating documents from Chatterjee's south Kolkata residence during searches which indicate the former education minister's involvement in the recruitment of teachers in primary school through Teacher Eligibility Test (TET), other than the alleged scam in recruitment of teachers and group D staff through the School Service Commission (SSC) in high schools.

"We found admit cards of candidates and results of applicants from Chatterjee's residence," said an ED official. Sources said a copy of revised results of TET exam, 2012, was found at his house. "We have evidence to prove the revised results were prepared on the basis of recommendations and in exchange of money," said an official.

The ED also found a letterhead of TMC's former Moynaguri MLA, Anantadeb Adhikari, in which names of five aspirants for jobs in schools were recommended. Adhikari admitted that he had recommended the names. "In 2016, during Chatterjee's tenure as education minister, all MLAs in districts were asked to recommend names and that's why I did it," he said.

Among the items seized from Chatterjee's house, ED has mentioned many properties in the name of Arpita Mukherjee, an aide of the leader, and firms suspected to be shell companies.

Chatterjee, who underwent a medical examination at AIIMS, Bhubaneswar was brought to Kolkata after doctors found his health parameters normal.

Russia doing better despite sanctions: IMF

On the other hand, economies of the US, China and the European Union are slowing down, the report reveals

WASHINGTON

DESPITE damaging Western sanctions imposed on Moscow in the wake of the invasion of Ukraine, Russia's economy appears to be weathering the storm better than expected as it benefits from high energy prices, the IMF said Tuesday. The sanctions were meant to sever Russia from the global financial system and choke off funds available to Moscow to finance the war.

But the International Monetary Fund's latest World Economic Outlook upgraded Russia's GDP estimate for this year by a remarkable 2.5 percentage points, although its economy is still expected to contract by 6%.

While major economies including the United States and China are slowing, "Russia's economy is estimated to have contracted during the second quarter by less than previously projected, with crude oil and non-energy exports holding up better than expected," the report said.

After starting the year below $80 a barrel, oil prices spiked to nearly $129 in March, before easing back to a little over $105, while natural gas prices are rising again and approaching their recent peak. Meanwhile, despite the sanctions, Russia's domestic demand is also showing some resilience thanks to containment of the effect of the sanctions.

In contrast, "The world's three largest economies, the United States, China and the euro area are stalling with important consequences for the global outlook," said IMF chief economist Pierre-Olivier Gourinchas.

Europe is facing the brunt of the fallout given its reliance on Russia for energy, and the situation could worsen dramatically if Moscow cuts off gas exports, and once the EU imposes a ban on Russian oil delivered by sea starting next year. The IMF now sees US growth this year of just 2.3%, amid slowing consumer spending and rising interest rates. China's economy is expected to slow dramatically in 2022, expanding just 3.3%, the lowest in more than four decades other than the 2020 pandemic crisis. AFP

Govt receives ₹1.45 cr bid on first day of 5G auction

The spectrum bid saw much interest in the mid-and-high bands

RAKESH KUMAR @NewDelhi

THE Department of Telecom (DoT) received a total bids of ₹1.45 lakh crore on the first day of 5G spectrum auction.

As per telecom ministry, 4 rounds of auction took place on Day 1 of India's biggest-ever bid for spectrum and saw highest-ever interest from bidders in the mid-and-high bands -- 3,300 MHz and 24 GHz. The 720 MHz low band, which went unsold in previous auctions, too received bids for the first-time ever. As per reports, 40% of the 720 MHz band has been sold.

"The auction saw a healthy participation. After 4 rounds, we have seen strong bids. This response shows the industry has turned the tide and is now growing into a sunrise industry; it will focus on investment and providing better quality service," Telecom minister Ashwini Vaishnaw told reporters on Tuesday evening.

The minister further said the government intends to allocate the spectrum "in record time" — by August 14, with a rollout of service expected by September. India's top two telcos Reliance Jio and Bharti Airtel, along with cash strapped Vodafone Idea (VIL) and new entrant Adani Data Networks, have put in bids so far. The government has put on sale 72 GHz of 5G airwaves across 10 bands worth ₹4.3 lakh crore at base price. The auction begun at 10am and will continue till 6 pm each day.

"Next 36 hours will pave the way for 5G roll-out in India. While the EMD (earnest money deposit) deposited and subsequent allocation of points allow operators to buy spectrum almost to the tune of ₹2 lakh crore, the government is expected to garner about 40% from this auction, said Peeyush Vaish, partner and telecom sector leader, Deloitte India. He added that since the supply is abundant, there is a fair chance of deferment of larger chunks of spectrum by the operators.

Jio has made a ₹14,000 crore EMD, Airtel has put in ₹5,500 crore and debt-laden VIL has made ₹2,200 crore. Cash-rich Gautam Adani-led-Adani Data Network put in just ₹100 crore. The EMD indicates the maximum quantity of airwaves a company can bid for in the auction, usually firms can bid 8-10x of the EMD amount.

Meanwhile, the DoT has said telcos can get E-band spectrum from the government in an administrative manner for the circles they have purchased spectrum for.

Flying with the airline code QP, Akasa Air will begin commercial operations with two aircraft from August 07, 2022. Top IT companies reduce hiring in first quarter of financial year 2022-23

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

AFTER hiring a record number of employees in Q4 FY22, the top IT companies in India have reduced net employee additions in the first quarter of this fiscal.

Tata Consultancy Services (TCS), Infosys and HCL Technologies cumulatively added only 37,396 staff in the April-June quarter, compared to 68,257 employees in the January-March quarter. Wipro and Tech Mahindra have added more employees - 22,308 in Q1FY23 as against 17,563 employees in the previous quarter. "Over the last few quarters, we have been hiring both lateral talent and fresh talent, and we think we have some additional capacity and that was the reason net hiring was lower than what we had in the past," said HCL Technologies CEO and MD C Vijayakumar in an earnings call.

Analysts say that IT companies have reduced hiring considering the demand environment. But Vijayakumar said the company has not moderated any hiring based on any demand environment. He added that the main reason was to increase utilisation and better deployment of freshers. HCL said that it will hire 30,000-35,000 freshers in FY23. "In this quarter, we plan to onboard 10,000 freshers, which will be one of the highest number of freshers that we have onboarded in the past five or six quarters," he said.

Wipro will also be adding over 30,000 freshers in FY23. TCS said it plans to hire 40,000 freshers in this fiscal. TCS CEO and MD Rajesh Gopinathan said, "Q1 is a lighter quarter for trainee absorption, whereas Q2 and Q3 are the primary quarters. Last year, we had gone aggressive and hired through the year to build up over 100,000 trainee bench."

IT firms have been reporting record-high attrition rates, and Infosys reported the highest attrition of 28.4% in Q1. Also, attrition continues to hit margins. Wipro CFO Jatin Dalal said employee costs have had a key impact on margins. TCS operating margin in Q1 stood at 23.1%, a contraction of 2.4% YoY. TCS CFO Samir Seksaria said, "It has been a challenging quarter from a cost management perspective. Our Q1 operating margin of 23.1% reflects the impact of our annual salary increase, the elevated cost of managing the talent churn and gradually normalising travel expenses."

Zomato share falls 12%, m-cap skids below ₹33K crore

ARSHAD KHAN @NewDelhi

AFTER falling over 11% on Monday, Zomato shares on Tuesday nose-dived another 12% to close at ₹41.65/piece on the BSE. The two-day bloodbath has wiped out nearly ₹9,000 crore of investors' wealth and has brought down the food aggregator's market capitalisation to 32,793 crore.

Zomato had emerged as one of the most valuable companies on listing day with a market cap of ₹98,849 crore and its valuation soared to ₹1,33,144 crore in November'21. The fall, which was triggered on Monday after the one-year lock-in period of its pre-IPO investors ended, weighed heavily on investors sentiment on Tuesday as well. The fall was sharper as overall market sentiment, especially of tech stocks, remained weak ahead of the crucial FOMC meeting. Benchmark Sensex and Nifty declined little less than 1% on Tuesday.

"Worries of Fed tightening are weighing on the profitless Internet names globally. The entire sector has been going through a period of re-adjustment as the focus is shifting from growth to cash flow. FANGMAN is down 15-65% year to day. This has also been impacting the global food delivery stocks which are down 50-65% YTD, with Zomato being the worst performing stock," said brokerage Jefferies in its commentary on Monday. Since the beginning of 2022, Zomato share prices have fallen by over 70%.

> Worries of Fed tightening are weighing on the profitless Internet names globally. The sector has been going through a re-adjustment as the focus is shifting from growth to cash flow. This has also been impacting food delivery stocks, with Zomato being the worst performing stock
> Jefferies

Beside Zomato, fintech major Paytm shed nearly 9% on Tuesday to skid below ₹700-level.

Jefferies sees a major upside in Zomato share prices and has kept a price target of ₹100. While Jefferies is bullish on the stock, few market experts feel the fall was bound to happen even as Zomato made a blockbuster debut in July last year. Ace investor Shankar Sharma on Twitter said, "It was game over on listing itself."

What also has impacted Zomato share prices is its decision to acquire another loss making startup Blinkit.

This, according to many experts, will delay Zomato's path to profitability.

Have unique biz model with access to unlimited B2B, B2C market: Adani

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @NewDelhi

ADANI GROUP Chairman Gautam Adani, at the Annual General Meeting (AGM) of Adani Enterprises (AEL) on Tuesday, said he knows of no company today, except his that has such a unique business model with potential access to an unlimited B2B (business to business) and B2C (business to consumer) market for the next several decades.

Adani's declaration comes as the over $200 billion Group continues to expand its dominance into newer businesses with ease and the flagships continue to win giant contracts.

"We were able to raise billions of dollars from the international markets – a direct validation of confidence in the India and Adani growth story. Several foreign governments are now approaching us to work in their geographies and help build their infrastructure. Therefore, in 2022, we also laid the foundation to seek a broader expansion beyond India's boundaries," said Adani who also is Asia's richest billionaire.

He added that the Group's rising m-cap has been supported by robust and sustained growth in their cash flows. Adani group's combined borrowings grew 40.5% to about ₹2.21 lakh crore in the financial year 2021-22.

"Our focus on operational excellence across portfolio and the accretive capacity addition delivered an EBITDA growth of 26%. Portfolio EBITDA stood at ₹42,623 crore. This diversified growth in FY22 was reflected across range of businesses. Our utility portfolio grew by 26%, our transport and logistics portfolio grew by 19%, our FMCG portfolio grew by 34%, and Adani Enterprises, our incubator business, grew by 45%. AEL's unique business model has no parallel and we intend to leverage this further," said Adani, Asia's richest man. On the its foray into renewable energy space, Adani said its plan to invest $ 70 billion in clean energy will act as a facilitator for India's green energy transition.

Growth of Adani group, m-cap rise

Adani's declaration comes as the over $200 bn Group continues to expand into newer biz and continue to win giant contracts. He said the Group's rising m-cap has been supported by sustained growth in cash flows

Increase time gap between filing of TDS and IT returns, say tax experts

MONIKA YADAV @NewDelhi

AS the last date for individuals to file their income tax returns (ITR) is nearing, tax consultants have taken to social media platforms demanding extension in the date for return filing.

Experts say due to delay in update of Form 26 AS, which is a consolidated annual statement having details of tax deducted at source (TDS), tax collected at source (TCS), advance tax and self assessment tax paid by the assessee, the taxpayers are left with very less time to do all the formalities and due diligence. The last date for individual return filing is July 31. The finance ministry sources have been saying that it is unlikely that the deadline will be extended. "Form 26 AS gets updated by June 10-15. It is dependent upon TDS returns. Deadline for filing TDS returns is May 31. Government data related to January-March is never updated on time. So the tax consultants are left with only 45 days to file returns. This time the duration is very short," Chetan Daga, partner at AdvantEdge Consulting Group, said. "At the end of the financial year, work gets piled up. So, the time to do the review and formalities related to return filing falls very short," Daga added. Kunal Singhal, a senior partner at CA firm Suresh Chandra & Associates, suggests that the government should raise the time gap between processing of TDS returns and return filing date.

RECESSION FEARS

IMF cuts India growth to 7.4% for current yr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @NewDelhi

THE IMF has cut India's growth forecast for 2022 down by 80 bps to 7.4%, reflecting less favourable external conditions and more rapid monetary policy tightening. In April, the multi-lateral agency had estimated India's GDP to grow at 8.2%. For 2023 as well, it had revised the growth estimate downward by 80 basis points to 6.1%.

In its latest World Economic Outlook (WEO) released on Tuesday, the agency ruled out the possibility of a global recession this year but warned that the risk of a recession was prominent next year.

"The risk of recession is particularly prominent in 2023, when in several economies growth is expected to bottom out, household savings accumulated during the pandemic will have declined, and even small shocks could cause economies to stall," it noted.

Considering the unending economic uncertainties, it has cut global growth to 3.2% and 2.9% in 2022 and 2023, respectively — 0.4% and 0.7% lower than its April estimates. In 2021, growth stood at 6.1%. The primary culprits driving revisions include the world's leading economies — the US, China, the euro area and of course India — which are witnessing sharper slowdowns due to extended lockdowns in China (affecting trade), tightening financial conditions, steeper interest rate hikes, persistent inflation, and spillovers from the Ukraine war.

As for price rise, the IMF made no bones about the fact that inflation is here to stay. Its baseline projections for global inflation are pessimistic, having been revised to 8.3% in 2022 from 6.9% projected in April. While emerging market and developing economies inflation may reach 10%, the revision is larger for advanced economies at 6.3% from 4.8%. This is due to significant price rise in major economies like the UK (2.7% upward revision to 10.5%) and the euro area (2.9% upward revision to 7.3%).

JAPAN

RAISES ECONOMIC VIEW, SIGNALS BROADER RECOVERY

Japan upgraded its overall view on the economy for the first time in three months in July, signalling a broader recovery in economic activity as the drag from the pandemic continued to fade. The upgrade was largely because the government turned more positive about consumption and employment amid hopes that strength in consumer activity will help shield the economy from rising risks of slowing global demand. "The economy is picking up gently," the government said in its July economic report, describing the world's third-largest economy in a way that it had not done since May 2013.

Industry urges govt to do away with compulsory 10% coal import order

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @NewDelhi

AS coal minister Pralhad Joshi claimed there was no shortage of coal in the county, industry experts on Tuesday requested the government not to coerce state power generators or independent power producers (IPPs) to import 10% coal for blending purpose on inflated rates.

Following the statement of the minister in parliament on July 25, 2022, the experts said the power ministry should revoke and withdraw the order for import of 10% their coal requirement. "All India Power Engineers Federation (AIPEF) has sent a letter today to Prime Minister urging him to intervene and issue effective directions to Ministry of Power to immediately withdraw the instructions given to state Gencos to import 10 % of coal in the light of reply given by Prahlad Joshi in Rajya Sabha on July 25, 2022, that there is no shortage of coal and production of coal is 31% more as compared to last year," said Shailendra Dubey Chairman of AIPEF.

The extra cost of imported coal, the federation said, must be borne by the power ministry now. As the country faced power crisis due to coal shortage in peak summer, the ministry, in an official order, asked state Gencos and IIPs to import 10% of coal for blending. The ministry further stated if blending with domestic coal is not started by June 15, 2022, then the domestic allocation of the defaulter thermal power plants will be further cut by 5%. However, the Joshi in parliament said in the current financial year (up to June 22), India has produced 204.876 MT of coal as against 156.11 MT during the same period of last year.

Upton to join as India's mental conditioning coach

Renowned mental conditioning coach Paddy Upton, who was part of the support staff of India's 2011 World Cup winning team, is rejoining the national set-up in the lead up to the T20 World Cup in Australia. Upton has been roped in on a short term contract and will be the latest addition to coach Rahul Dravid's team of support staff.

NEERAJ SEEKS DL RETURN

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

IN a big setback for India, javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra has pulled out of the Commonwealth Games due to injury. The 2020 Tokyo Olympics champion was forced to give the quadrennial Games a miss due to abductor strain, considered a common groin injury among athletes. He sustained it during the World Athletics Championships in Eugene, Oregon on Saturday.

Neeraj was supposed to leave for Birmingham on Sunday for the multi-discipline event but he had to postpone his departure and instead went for an MRI. Neeraj had said after the silver medal at the Worlds that he strained his right thigh after the throw in the fourth attempt. "I had a thigh strain after the fourth round and so I used a strap," he had said. After the fourth attempt, he could not match his 88.13m (fourth attempt) in the following throws. Neeraj is the defending champion at the CWG and was supposed to be India's flag-bearer.

Neeraj and the team, including coach Klaus Bartonietz and Ishaan Marwaha, are still in the US, rescheduling their tickets and plan. They would, however, will not come to India as of now. Instead, they are looking at a place in Belgium or Germany for the Indian star to consult an expert and start his rehabilitation process. Anderson Peters, his rival and competitor from Grenada, who bettered him at the Worlds for the gold, is still in the fray.

If insiders are to be believed, Neeraj doesn't want to take the risk because there is hardly any time for him to recover fully. The javelin throw final is on August 7. With some important Diamond League events and the Asian Games and Athletics World Championships scheduled next year, it is prudent to not risk much at the CWG. The 24-year-old is now planning to continue rehabilitation and training in Europe. The destination will be decided soon.

Manisha Malhotra, who is working closely with Neeraj and his team, confirmed that the Haryana ace, as things stand, would be looking to consult doctors in Germany or Belgium. "We are looking for specialists and hopefully get an appointment," Manisha, who heads JSW's sports excellence programme, said from Germany.

The team is hoping to participate at the Lausanne Diamond League on August 26.

2nd Indian cricketer tests positive for Covid

ENS @Chennai

AS the Indian women's team are getting ready for their maiden appearance in the Commonwealth Games in Birmingham, two players have tested positive for Covid and have stayed back in Bengaluru. Last Thursday, the BCCI president Sourav Ganguly had confirmed after the Apex council meeting that one player has tested positive. While the Indian team has already reached Birmingham, on Tuesday, the BCCI confirmed that another player from the squad, too, had tested positive and had to stay back in Bengaluru. According to the BCCI, the two players could join the team only after testing negative twice.

Can India complete clean sweep?

Having sealed the three-match ODI series 2-0, tourists will look to end on a high in the final 50-over clash on Wednesday. A look ahead of 3rd clash...

DEARTH OF EARLY WICKETS

One of the things that India have struggled with in both the matches is to make a mark with the new ball early on. With no Mohammad Shami and Jasprit Bumrah, the likes of Prasidh Krishna and Mohammed Siraj haven't been able to provide breakthroughs consistently. It is something they would want to look at in the final ODI.

CAN HOSTS SALVAGE A WIN?

Having put up a show with the bat in both matches, skipper Nicholas Pooran being happy about finishing 50 overs, West Indies would want to get a win under the belt before moving on to their strongest format. They might have to find a way to keep breaking partnerships with the ball and restrict India to a moderate total.

IN-FORM AXAR PUTS PRESSURE ON JADEJA

Axar Patel stole the show on Sunday with all round performance of 1/40 and an unbeaten 35-ball 64. With Ravindra Jadeja's bowling numbers not being up to the mark in recent years — 57.15 average since July 2019 — Axar's rise could keep Jadeja's place in the XI in check. And when he comes back from injury, it will be interesting to see how the team combination goes.

Officials at 5 'Villages' for athletes

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

FIVE different 'Villages' made the job of officials responsible for the country's contingent a bit difficult but India's Chef de Mission for the Commonwealth Games (CWG), Rajesh Bhandari, expressed satisfaction over the facilities being provided to the athletes.

"We are satisfied with the facilities here. The teams from different disciplines will be staying at five different 'Villages' and these venues are far away from each other. However, we have deputed officials at different locations to take care of athletes and cater to their needs," Bhandari told this daily from Birmingham.

Usually, all athletes stay in the dedicated Games Village but the organisers of Birmingham 2022 have arranged five different accommodations for athletes. More than 5000 athletes are set to take part in the sporting extravaganza.

As per the official communication issued by the Indian Olympic Association (IOA), athletes taking part in swimming, athletics, gymnastics, squash, and hockey, will be staying in Commonwealth Games Village Birmingham (CGB) while the ones in badminton, boxing, table tennis, weightlifting and triathlon will be put up in Commonwealth Games Village NEC (CGN).

Those participating in wrestling, judo and lawn bowls will be based out of Commonwealth Games Village Warwick (CGW) while the cricketers will be in Commonwealth Games Village City Centre (CGC).

Pathbreaker Vijayalakshmi recalls Grand times & more

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN Viswanathan Anand became the first Indian Grandmaster in 1988, it was a landmark moment. Over the next 12 years, India produced four more GMs. But all of them were men. It wasn't until Subbaraman Vijayalakshmi broke the glass ceiling in 2001, that India had a woman Grandmaster.

44 CHESS OLYMPIAD
EXPRESS SPECIAL

Subbaraman Vijayalakshmi

Vijayalakshmi is a trendsetter in many ways. She was the Commonwealth women's champion in 1996 and won silver medals in the 2000 and 2002 Olympiads, but more than anything else, she put Indian women's chess on the map. As her home city, Chennai, gets ready to host the 44th Chess Olympiad, the 43-year-old spoke about her journey, how much the game and fraternity have grown and more. Excerpts:

On her early journey...

My father was the person who brought me into chess. Ours is a chess family. All my sisters play. We started chess when I was three-and-a-half-years old, the way things were then to what it is now there is a huge sea of change as far as chess growth is concerned. At that time, the Olympiad was just like any other tournament everyone was aware of but now seeing that so much awareness and recognition is there, it's such a happy place for all players right now.

How things have changed from the time you became a WGM?

When I used to play, I used to get prize money of ₹50 or 100. Now the prize is high. Obviously, there's quite a lot of difference in that, they get more exposure. I have won two Olympiad medals. But basically, it was unknown at that point in time. Now, an Olympiad medal means more monetarily (as well), that'll be a huge motivation.

Do you think the pressure is more now?

Pressure is always there. For the simplest reason because even when I played, I had the pressure of coming first. I don't think it was any different than what it is now. The big difference is that as of today they have good opportunities. That is one major difference.

The most memorable moment of your career...

Definitely, when I became the first woman GM of the country. When I first won the Chess Olympiad silver medal, the whole fraternity was there, I was representing India and our flag was being hoisted. That was a very special moment. It was the greatest moment for my dad because we started with absolutely nothing and even now, there is no recognition for him. The whole fraternity knows that I am what I am because of him.

EU nations okay formula on gas ration for winter

The plan asks member states to voluntarily reduce its use by 15% starting next month

ENERGY

BRUSSELS: The European Union agreed a plan to reduce gas consumption on Tuesday, an act of solidarity with Germany and a response to Russia's manipulation of supplies as an economic weapon.

The plan, approved by energy ministers in Brussels, will see exceptions and carve-outs as some EU countries blanched at making too deep a sacrifice for Berlin and a few landlocked member states.

But Hungary was the only member state to oppose the plan, which passed on a majority vote, and the ministers' Council of the European Union hailed the deal as a victory for EU unity.

"In an effort to increase EU security of energy supply, member states today reached a political agreement on a voluntary reduction of natural gas demand by 15% this winter," the council said. "The Council regulation also foresees the possibility to trigger a 'Union alert' on security of supply, in which case the gas demand reduction would become mandatory," the statement continued.

"The purpose of the gas demand reduction is to make savings ahead of winter in order to prepare for possible disruptions of gas supplies from Russia that is continuously using energy supplies as a weapon."

Germany, the EU's economic powerhouse, is hugely dependent on Russian gas and remains at the mercy of the supply from Gazprom for the years still needed to find alternative sources. "It is true that, Germany with its dependence on Russian gas, has made a strategic mistake but our government is working... to correct this," Germany's economy minister Robert Habeck said as he arrived.

> The purpose of the gas demand reduction is to make savings ahead of winter in order to prepare for possible disruptions of gas supplies...
>
> Council of EU

France said showing solidarity with Berlin would help in turn protect all of Europe, even though Germany takes a major share of the 40% of EU gas imports that came from Russia last year.

"Our industrial chains are completely interdependent: if the chemical industry in Germany coughs, the whole of European industry could come to a halt," said French minister for energy transition, Agnes Pannier-Runacher. The plan asks member states to voluntarily reduce gas use by 15%—based on a five-year average for the months in question—starting next month and over the subsequent winter through March. Czech industry minister Jozef Sikela, said the plan would deliver a strong answer to Gazprom's plan to cut gas deliveries to Europe.

Thaw and redraw: melting glacier moves Italian-Swiss border

Way up in the snowy Alps, the border between Switzerland and Italy has shifted due to a melting glacier, putting the location of an Italian mountain lodge in dispute

DRAINAGE DIVIDE

The borderline runs along a drainage divide—the point at which meltwater will run down either side of the mountain towards one country or the other

THEODUL GLACIER'S RETREAT

But the Theodul Glacier's retreat means the watershed has crept towards the Rifugio Guide del Cervino, a refuge for visitors near the 3,480-metre Testa Grigia peak—and it is gradually sweeping underneath the building

SWITZERLAND OR ITALY

Tourists who visit the establishment find that the menu is in Italian, not German, and priced in euros rather than Swiss francs. Thus, a question always pops in their heads: are they in Switzerland or in Italy?

INITIALLY AN ITALIAN REFUGE

When the refuge was built on a rocky outcrop in 1984, its 40 beds and long wooden tables were entirely in Italian territory

SOUTHERN SWITZERLAND

But now two-thirds of the lodge, including most of the beds and the restaurant, is technically perched in southern Switzerland

TOURISM

The issue has come to the fore because the area, which relies on tourism, is located at the top of one of the world's largest ski resorts, with a major new development including a cable car station being constructed a few metres away

KEEPING A WATCH ON THE BOUNDARY

Wicht's job includes looking after the 7,000 boundary markers along landlocked Switzerland's 1,935-kilometre border with Austria, France, Germany, Italy and Liechtenstein

SECRET NEGOTIATION

It is a question worth asking as it has been the subject of diplomatic negotiations that started in 2018 and concluded with a compromise last year—but the details remain secret

LINE IN THE SNOW

Where the Italian-Swiss border traverses Alpine glaciers, the frontier follows the watershed line

But the Theodul Glacier lost almost a quarter of its mass between 1973 and 2010. That exposed the rock underneath to the ice, altering the drainage divide and forcing the two neighbours to redraw around a 100-metre-long stretch of their border

REVELATION OF AGREEMENT An agreement was hammered out in Florence in November 2021 but the outcome will only be revealed once it is rubber-stamped by the Swiss government—which will not happen before 2023

SPLITTING THE DIFFERENCE "We agreed to split the difference," Alain Wicht, chief border official at Switzerland's national mapping agency Swisstopo told AFP

REFUGE WILL BE ITALIAN While the outcome remains secret, the refuge's caretaker, 51-year-old Lucio Trucco, has been told it will stay on Italian soil

Centuries-old mines stirring Japan-South Korea tensions

CULTURE

SADO: Under a split-top mountain on the Japanese island of Sado lies a network of centuries-old mines that have sparked a new diplomatic row with South Korea.

Some of the gold and silver mines of Sado, off Japan's west coast, are believed to have started operating as early as the 12th century and produced until after World War II. Japan believes that lengthy history and the artisanal mining techniques used there at a time when European mines had turned to mechanisation merit recognition on UNESCO's World Heritage List.

But in Seoul, the focus is on what isn't mentioned in the bid: the use of conscripted Korean labour during the Second World War, when Japan occupied the Korean peninsula. Japan is seeking recognition of three sites for the period between 1603 and 1867.

Officials and supporters of the bid say that era was when the mines were the world's most productive and mining was done by hand. But it also stops short of the period when conscripted Koreans toiled in conditions that even some backers of the UNESCO bid call "extremely harsh".

The World Heritage effort has been years in the making, inspired in part by the successful recognition of a silver mine in Japan's Shimane region.

THE INCIDENT

A single homemade pipe bomb was left in a knapsack and exploded amid a crowd of spectators in Centennial Olympic Park, near the main sites of the Olympic Games in Atlanta

BEFORE THE BOMBING

Three months before the blast, the Atlanta Olympic Committee transformed the 21-acre site from an unused area of slums into an entertainment venue

AFTER THE TRAGEDY

Eventually, after the bombings of a gay nightclub and abortion clinic in Atlanta, the police arrested Eric Rudolph. He was sentenced to multiple life sentences in 2005

21-year-old Sini Shetty, Femina Miss India 2022, has her sights set on the next Miss World title. The girl from Karnataka, who was recently in Bengaluru, talks about maintaining her individuality while going places

CROWNING GLORY

UNLIKE many her age, Sini Shetty (21), who was recently crowned Femina Miss India 2022, already has a vision of what she hopes to achieve. However, behind the crown and the designer labels, she is a 'total goofball and a clumsy person'. Shetty is soon going to be the face of India at the Miss World Pageant.

Shetty, even though raised in Mumbai, has her roots in Mangaluru, and was recently in Bengaluru for a homecoming tour. The whole experience since her victory in the pageant has been nothing less than a dream for her. She recalls it was a family tradition with all her cousins, uncles, and aunts to watch the Miss India pageant. "I always wanted to be a part of it. I remember Aishwarya Rai winning and she comes from the Bunt community. She was the chief guest for a community programme that I saw as a five-year-old. I was starstruck," recalls Shetty, who is a frequent visitor to the city with extended family based here. "When I am in Bengaluru, I usually hang out in Indiranagar or Whitefield. I am a 'dosae girl' so CTR and MTR are also on the list," says Shetty, revealing that she is looking forward to indulging in a dosae after her chat with CE.

It's needless to mention that Shetty's win has been a personal win for her parents, who are in the hospitality business. She calls her parents her biggest support, both physically and emotionally. However, when she broke the news of her competing in the pageant, her family members didn't believe it. "I was supposed to travel to Mangaluru, to visit my grandmother. But the dates when I'd booked my tickets coincided with the date to audition for the pageant. My mother thought I was using the pageant as an excuse to get out of attending a family function. Later, when I told her that I was in the top 31, she still didn't believe me. When the official Instagram announcement came, she was shocked," recalls Shetty.

Shetty was one of 31 contestants when she entered the pageant, but was unaware of the fact that her name would go down in history. Completely humbled by her competition, whom she considers equally worthy of winning, Shetty believes two things set her aside. "The first is that throughout my journey I kept learning, not just from the mentor but also all the other girls who were present. I am a keen observer and I like to pick out things that will make me a better person. I am a hustler, if I have my mind set on something, I will give it my 100 per cent," says Shetty, who comes from a marketing background.

FIT BIT

KUNDALINI CIRCLES

(SEATED TORSO CIRCLES)

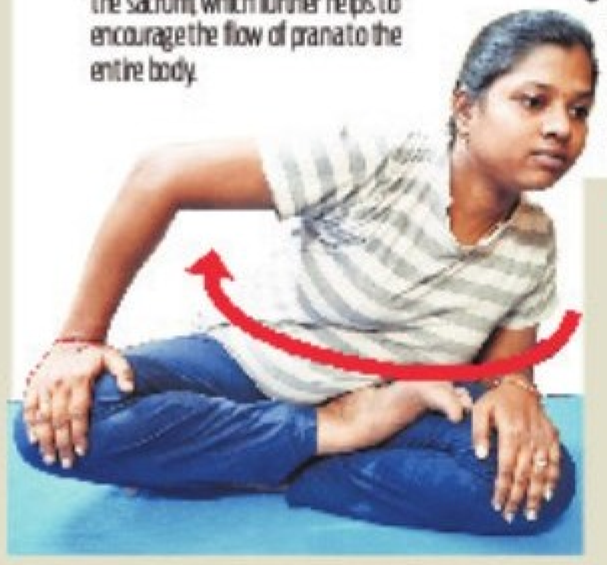
In spiritual circles, this term represents the primal force that lies 'coiled' at the base of one's spine. It is a simple seated torso movement that helps warm-up the hips and spine, engaging the core and abdominal muscles. It focusses on the Muladhara (Root) Chakra and Manipura (Solar Plexus) Chakra.

STEPS

- After releasing from Paschimottanasana (Seated Forward Bend), where the hips were opened up a bit and the shoulders too, cross your legs and keep them on the floor while still seated.
- If crossing your legs is difficult, you can continue to be seated in Dandasana (Staff Pose).
- Here, inhale and begin a slow movement of the torso, clockwise and anticlockwise moving in two rounds each in counts of four breaths.
- If you are seated in Dandasana too, you can try rotating the torso taking it slowly from one side to another.
- This helps you to encourage the opening of the base of the spine, the sacrum, which further helps to encourage the flow of prana to the entire body.

BENEFITS

- Opens the tight muscles of the back, increasing the range of motion of the hips, and freeing tensions in the shoulders and upper back.
- Before practising deep twists and forward bends, prepare the back, hips and shoulders for easier movements.
- Helps strengthen the deep core muscles, including the pelvic floor, gluteus maximus, and psoas muscles.
- Body gets a good stretch, helping the side abdominal muscles be active and energised.
- The flow of prana is said to move upwards through the chakras, awakening the right energy to create a path for spirituality.
- Stimulates organs improving better digestion, lesser pains during menstruation, and balances hormones.
- Keeps the body free of toxins, flushing them out.
- Brings awareness to how the body feels and the mind responds to this feeling.



LIMITATIONS

Beginners shouldn't go beyond their limits during practice.

If you are suffering from gastroesophageal reflux disease, avoid.

In case of extreme lower back pain, chronic spinal issues or spinal conditions, pregnant women with high or low blood pressure must avoid this.

TIMELESS TALES

HARISH BHAT

IN January 1944, five Indian industrialists, including J.R.D. Tata and G.D. Birla, and three Tata technocrats, published the Bombay Plan — the first-ever plan for the long-term economic development of post-Independence India. The plan had stung the British because it proved that Indians were capable of planning their own future.

Now, these industrial leaders were eagerly looking forward to Indian freedom, and to actively contributing to the economic development of the country post end of World War II. In fact, Indian industry had also contributed handsomely towards the Allied War efforts over the past several years. Now the Allies, including the British, were on the verge of defeating the Axis, led by Adolf Hitler.

Perhaps in recognition of this contribution, the British Government of India announced, in October 1944, an industrial mission to the US and UK. The mission was to take place sometime in 1945 and would comprise some of India's most famous industrialists, who would bear their respective expenses throughout the trip. The objective was to study how the industry had successfully organized itself as well as technical advancements in these two developed nations. The government announcement added: 'The knowledge and ideas which they [the Indian industrialists] will bring back with them will be of great value in the further industrialization of the country, after the war.'

Many authors of the Bombay Plan including J.R.D. Tata, G.D. Birla and Kasturbhai Lalbhai were invited on this mission to the West, as were several other famous Indian businessmen. Coordinating on behalf of the Government of India was H.M. Patel, ICS, the then secretary of industry and civil supplies (he would later become finance minister of India in the Janata government regime). Detailed arrangements with various overseas companies and factories were put in place over several months of planning, and the delegation was eventually all set to leave India in the second week of May 1945.

However, just a few days before they embarked on their flight, an unanticipated development occurred. Mahatma Gandhi issued a strong statement opposing the industrial mission. On 6 May 1945, he contacted the press from Mahabaleshwar. This statement was reported by the Bombay Chronicle the very next day under the sensational headline 'Gandhiji's Bombshell for Industrialists':

Ask them to wait till leaders are free. Freedom will come only after big business forego crumbs from Indo-British loot…All the big interests proclaim with one voice that India wants nothing less than her own elected National Government to shape her own destiny free of all control, British or other. This independence will not come for the asking… The so-called unofficial deputation which will go to England and America dare not proceed, whether for inspection of for entering into a shameful deal, so long as the moving spirits of the Congress Working Committee are being detained without any trial for the sole crime of sincerely striving for India's Independence without shedding a drop of blood, save their own.

Clearly, the Mahatma was totally and rightly preoccupied with thoughts of his colleagues fighting for freedom who had been unjustly imprisoned by the British. It is also not clear from historical evidence whether Gandhiji had with him all the facts about the delegation before issuing his statement, in particular the fact that this was only a learning mission and not meant for signing any business deals with the UK or US. On the other hand, for the industrialists, the future economic development of their country was an equal priority and this mission was a stepping stone towards that goal.

‘I INITIALLY HESITATED TO TELL SUDEEP ABOUT VIKRANT RONA’

... says director Anup Bhandari, who talks about his upcoming fantasy mystery thriller to be released in multiple languages this week

A SHARADHAA

Sudeep and Anup Bhandari

A filmmaker learns lessons with every project, and director Anup Bhandari shares that he understood the importance of self-evolution right in his second film, Rajaratha. “I learnt what I shouldn't do from Rajaratha. There were a lot of things I did right, but what mattered the most was what I didn't do right. I felt the need to focus on the story and work on the screenplay to connect with the audience, and I worked along the lines for my next, Vikrant Rona. In general, even when I look back at Rangitaranga, I see a lot of faults in the film. It is also the same with films helmed by other directors. I usually find it difficult to enjoy the film because I always spot the loopholes. Having said that, Vikrant Rona, from script to screen has been a satisfying journey. I'm waiting to know the audience reaction,” says Anup Bhandari ahead of the film's release on July 28.

Sharing that the responses have been overwhelming, Anup exudes confidence about the way the film has shaped up. “It will work even if the audience connects to 50 per cent to the film. I am not nervous at all, and it might also be because I am too tired to have any other feeling,” says the filmmaker

Vikrant Rona is Anup Bhandari's step into the big leagues, but how did such a blockbuster collaboration with Sudeep happen in the first place? “I initially hesitated to tell Sudeep sir about Vikrant Rona because I didn't feel that it was an out-and-out commercial film. But I had discussed it with Jack Manju, who later became the producer of the film. Manju liked the script and asked me to tell Priya (Sudeep's wife). She was so convinced with the story, and put in a word to Sudeep. Once he heard the story, he wanted to make this a big film,” he says.

Anup Bhandari categorises himself as a director who makes commercial films with a sensible subject feels that any film that makes money should be considered a mass film. “I don't agree that 5 fights and songs make for a commercial outing. I call it a formula subject,” says Anup, who adds that in Vikrant Rona, the commercial aspects come organically. “I usually stay away from illogical scenes, and this film did not demand those kind of sequences at all. Luckily, Sudeep liked the film for what it was. Had he said that the story is good, but let us make it commercial, adding fights and mass dialogues, the subject would have died. But he never went into that zone. That way the essence of the film never got lost, but only became big. Sudeep's presence in the film gave me the license to implement what I had envisioned,” he says.

The film was extensively shot on the set, and it was a new experience for Anup. “I usually like shooting amid nature, and even this film has a few portions shot in Kerala and Maharashtra. But when it came to working on the set, it needed a lot of planning, but I felt a lot more in control,” says Anup, who credits his technicians for being supportive.

While Anup was clear that the film is fit to be shown in multiple languages, the content is suited to be made in 3D, says the director. “The output of 3D is realistic and mounted on a bigger scale. 3D has not been used as a gimmick in the film. It helps to take the audience into the world of Vikrant Rona and adds depth.”

The film also starring Nirup Bhandari, and Neetha Ashok is a fantasy mystery thriller that also comprises a handful of child actors including Anup Bhandari's daughter (Nishka Bhandari). “There are a lot of kids, who come at different points in the film. The angle of kids narrating the story connects with the film. Subconsciously, this will also attract kids to the theatres. Rest everything else is organic,” he says.

RAKSHIT SHETTY'S 777 CHARLIE TO RELEASE ON VOOT

CE FEATURES

THE Rakshit Shetty-starrer 777 Charlie is all set to premiere on Voot Select on July 29. Written and directed by Kiranraj K and produced by Paramvah Studios, 777 Charlie illustrates a beautiful and moving relationship between a pet called Charlie and the lead character Dharma, played by Rakshit, alongside a talented ensemble of cast like Sangeetha Sringeri, Raj B. Shetty and Danish Sait.

The recently released superhit film captures how Charlie brings purpose to Dharma's mundane life with humour, adventure, unconditional love, and a roller coaster of emotions. The plot revolves around Dharma, who is stuck in a rut and spends each day in the comfort of his loneliness. Charlie waltzes into his life to turn it upside down (quite literally) and from there follows life that is a riot of emotions, bonding and a special relationship that tugs the heartstrings of viewers.

Kiranraj K, said, “777 Charlie has been a very emotionally fulfilling project. Since there are not many movies around this story plot, my endeavour was to make a movie that will resonate with pet lovers across the country. Shooting with Charlie has been challenging as well as highly rewarding, we had to keep up with her training schedules, sweet quirks and understand film making from a different lens altogether. I am overwhelmed with all the love we have received from all over the country for the film and excited for its OTT premiere now.”

Actor Rakshit Shetty said, “The film, and my character Dharma is undeniably one of the biggest highlights of my career. Every emotion portrayed while shooting for 777 Charlie was natural and came straight from the heart. It will be an experience that I will cherish for years to come. I would urge the audience to watch it on Voot Select and keep spreading the love for our film.”

Sangeetha Sringeri said, “Working with the entire star cast of 777 Charlie, with such a unique storyline has been an incredible experience. I am extremely humbled with the response received so far. Suffice to say, 777 Charlie has made the Kannada Film industry proud.”

‘MY CHARACTER'S ANGST COMES FROM LOSING HIS MOTHER’

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

Arjun Kapoor and Disha Patani talk about their upcoming film, Ek Villain Returns

ARJUN Kapoor's black boots are almost touching the all-glass window of the interview room in the T-Series office. He is looking outside, at the grayness of the Mumbai monsoon. Disha Patani is sitting by his side. A freshly brewed cup of black coffee is steaming on the table before us. Raindrops glisten on the window. It's a perfect weather for a hooded serial killer to look for prey.

“I liked a girl in college,” Arjun reminisces. “I asked a friend to find out if she likes me too. Few days later, the two of them started dating. But I was fine with it. I guess I sacrificed my love for my friendship.”

This, however, is unlike Arjun's character in Ek Villain Returns, a spiritual sequel to the 2014 thriller Ek Villain. Arjun's Gautam Mehra doesn't seem like the sacrificing type as he trades blows with John Abraham's Bhairav in the film. “His angst comes from losing his mother at a young age. He is not used to having women in his life and doesn't know how to behave with or around them. Moreover, his father hates his behavior, but still, he seeks his attention.”

The film's trailer shows a tormented Arjun tapping on Tara Sutaria's car window as she abandons him. This seems like a typical Mohit Suri character, whose roots go back to Kunal Khemu's Kunal in Kalyug (2005). Though Arjun has covered the first half of being a jilted lover in another Mohit directorial, Half-Girlfriend (2015), it's the second half of exalting revenge that awaits him in Ek Villain Returns. “I worked with Mohit in Half-Girlfriend and it was a romantic role. It was the brooding side of Mohit's in Murder 2 (2011) and Ek Villain that I always wanted to explore.”

“What I really like about Mohit is how he writes his women,” says Disha. “He always tells me that it's important for a love story to be told from a woman's perspective.” In his career spanning ten years, Arjun has strived to not be stereotyped, even at the cost of commercial gains. He made a mark with his performance in Yash Raj Films' Ishaqzaade (2012) and played varied roles in subsequent releases like Aurangzeb (2013), Finding Fanny (2014), Tevar (2015) and Namaste England (2018), although they failed to mint money. However, Arjun is sort of a box-office whiz and the exact daily collections of his releases are on his fingertips. He is the son of producer Boney Kapoor, and maybe it's in the genes. Arjun, however, doesn't only choose films on the basis of their money-making viability. “Box-office potential can only make fifty per cent of the decision. When I did a Sandeep Aur Pinky Faraar, I was not thinking about the commercial prospect. I just wanted certain respect as an actor and to explore my craft more. When I was approached with Finding Fanny, Naseeruddin Shah, Pankaj Kapur, Deepika Padukone, and Dimple Kapadia were already a part of the film. I did the film because I wanted to work with such stalwarts and didn't want to be pigeonholed as an action hero. It's also about the people who are making it. Sometimes a commercial film comes around and you don't resonate with the way they are imagining it.”

Interestingly, Arjun's first film was not supposed to be Ishaqzaade. He auditioned for the role of Achyut Diwan, a hacker, in Y Films' (a subsidiary of Yash Raj) Virus Diwan. After the release of an announcement video, the film, however, didn't progress. “Virus Diwan's script didn't turn out to be as it was envisaged. At the same time, Adi sir (Aditya Chopra) approached me with Ishaqzaade. You don't ask questions when you are being upgraded to business class. After which I got Aurangzeb and the rest is history.”

Arjun believes Aurangzeb (2013) didn't get its due. “I did a thriller with a double role in my second film. Nobody hated the film but there was not enough love and it was lost somewhere in between. I think out of all my films Aurangzeb got the most lost at that point of time,” he says. “If it was released now it would have worked as a great OTT series, maybe like Patal Lok.”
